It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

ATTORNEY-GENERAL

OF THE

UNITED STATES

FOR

THE YEAR 1897.

WASHINGTON:
GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.
1897.

THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, D. C., November 30, 1897.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

I have the honor to make the following report of the business of the Department of Justice and of the Federal courts during the past year:

UNION PACIFIC FORECLOSURE, ETC.

The relations of the Pacific railroads to the Government arising under the acts of July 1, 1862, and July 2, 1864, are familiar to the Congress. The steps taken to foreclose the lien of the Government, authorized by those acts and under what inducement they were taken, have been already submitted. (See Senate Document No. 83, second session, Fifty-fourth Congress.) A further history of the suits appears in the report of special counsel hereto attached.

It is only necessary to say that the issues were duly litigated and decrees of foreclosure and sale obtained, and that the Union Pacific main line was sold on the 1st and 2d of November and that the sale of the Kansas Pacific was postponed until the 15th day of December.

FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT OF GEORGE HOADLY, SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL IN THE MATTER OF THE UNION PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY.

NEW YORK, November 16, 1897.

Hon. JOSEPH MCKENNA,
Attorney-General, Washington City, D. C.

DEAR SIR: At the date of my report of November 9, 1896, the litigation, the object of which was to sell and reorganize the Oregon Short Line and Utah and Northern Railway Company, remained unfinished.

Since that date this railroad property has been sold and passed into the management of a new company, created by the combination of its owners and creditors, known as the Oregon Short Line Railroad Company, and thus, since March 17, 1897, the date of change of possession, has been and will hereafter continue to be managed independently of and possibly in competition with the Union Pacific Railway Company.

W

No change has taken place in the management of the Central Branch Union Pacific Railroad Company since the date of my last report.

The foreclosure spoken of in that report has proceeded slowly, and has not yet reached a definite conclusion. It may be presumed, however, in view of the change of ownership of the $1,025,000 bonds in the sinking fund of the Union Pacific Railway Company, which will soon be accomplished, that important changes will soon take place in the relations of this property.

The sale hereinafter referred to of the said sinking fund, embracing $1,025,000 in first mortgage bonds of the Central Branch (valued in the testimony taken in the Union Pacific foreclosure suits at the disastrous figure of only 35 per cent of its par value), will leave as the interest of the Government in that property only the amount (at par) of $163,000, being first mortgage bonds in the sinking fund of the Central Pacific Company, and the original subsidy lien of $1,600,000, with thirty years' accumulated interest.

It is, to say the least, doubtful whether this subsidy lien has any value at all. Whatever there is will be for the future to develop. No proceedings are pending for its enforcement.

A motion made during the past year in behalf of a committee representing about one-half of the holders of first-mortgage bonds of the Central Branch to change the control of that property by the appointment of a special receiver was overruled by Judge Sanborn of the Eighth circuit, who considered it best to continue the administration of the property by the five present receivers until after the contemplated sale of the Union Pacific sinking fund should afford an opportunity for the purchasers of the $1,025,000 (at par) Central Branch bonds in that sinking fund to act independently of the Government.

As explained in former reports, the Central Branch is under lease to the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, the rental to be its net receipts.

It is the right to enforce payment of this rental, and to expend the same if there should be any, which constitutes the property of the Central Branch under administration by the five receivers of the Union Pacific Railway Company, and the present situation remains as it was at the date of my last report, but with important changes impending in the change of the ownership of the large block of bonds in the sinking fund, which will require the close attention of the Judicial Department of the United States Government to avoid very serious if not total loss on account of the subsidy bonds and remaining $163,000 of Central Branch bonds now in the sinking fund of the Central Pacific Railroad.

During the month of July, 1896, Messrs. Coudert and Doane, two of the receivers of the Union Pacific Railway, were approached on behalf of the reorganization committee of bond and stock holders of the railway with the proposition that if the United States Government would bring the railway to sale, or would enter their appearance in the suits brought to foreclose the first mortgage, so as to enable the first-mortgage bondholders, whom they represented, to foreclose their mortgage effectively, the reorganization committee would guarantee a bid at the sale of a price satisfactory to the Government.

President Cleveland was of opinion that, while this suggestion deserved careful attention, and might in time, as it proved, be the basis of such action on the part of the Government as the committee proposed, nevertheless, that as the whole subject was pending before Congress, and not yet acted on, the adoption of any such scheme by him was not then timely, but would have to be deferred until after Congress had had the opportunity to exercise its own judgment in the premises.

Accordingly the President directed the attention of Congress, in his message of December, 1896, to the wisdom and necessity of action on their part, adding the statement that in the absence of such action he should or might feel it to be his duty to institute foreclosure proceedings in the interests of the United States.

Congress having failed to act, the President accordingly determined to foreclose the mortgage of the United States, and, under instructions given by him to the Attorney-General, the necessary applications were made to the circuit court, then in session at St. Louis, to permit the filing of bills to foreclose the subsidy liens on both the Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific lines against the receivers, who were in possession of the property, which were granted.

Preliminary to this action, however, a correspondence occurred, which resulted in an agreement by the reorganization committee, that if the Government would "at once take proceedings in the pending foreclosure suits or by independent bills for the enforcement of its lien upon the railroad and property of the Union Pacific Railway (which includes the Kansas Pacific Line) by sale thereof, and for the sale of the sinking fund in the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury, relating to the Union Pacific Railway Company," the reorganization committee would "guarantee a minimum bid for the Union and Kansas Pacific lines of railroad and property embraced within the lien of the Government and for the cash and securities in the United States Union Pacific sinking fund taken at par, which should produce to the Government, over and above any prior liens and charges upon the railways and sinking fund, the net sum of $45,000,000."

The performance of this agreement to bid was guaranteed by a deposit of $4,500,000, as security, in the United States Trust Company, in New York.

This correspondence (with the exception of one letter) having been furnished by the Attorney-General to the Senate and printed in Senate Document No. 83, of the second session of the Fifty-fourth Congress, it is unnecessary to refer to it further here; but as the correspondence in fact began with a letter written by me at the instance of the Attorney-General, which was not so printed, I deem it proper to attach this letter to this report, in order that the entire correspondence may be in print in the office of the Attorney-General.

The necessary leave to sue the receivers having been granted by Judge Sanborn upon condition that the Government should appear in the already pending suits to foreclose the first mortgages, and the condition having been complied with by the Attorney-General (Harmon), the litigation proceeded actively.

Two suits in equity were brought by the United States in February, 1897, one to foreclose the subsidy lien on the main line of the Union Pacific Railway from Council Bluffs to the western terminus, at a point 5 miles beyond Ogden, in Utah, and to convert the sinking fund into money and apply it to the subsidy debt; the other to foreclose the United States subsidy lien on the line of the Kansas Pacific Railway terminal point in Missouri, from its eastern to its western terminus, at a point in Kansas $393\frac{1}{2}$ miles west of the Missouri State line.

These cases were referred to William D. Cornish, the master in chancery of the circuit court for the eighth circuit, to take testimony and report.

Much testimony was given, reports made and exceptions thereto taken, which were submitted in argument to Judge Sanborn at a prolonged (twelve days) informal session held by him in Boston, Mass., in the month of June, 1897.

The result of this litigation was in part favorable and in part unfavorable to the contentions made by the undersigned in behalf of the United States.

The Government succeeded in establishing that the eastern terminus of the Union Pacific Railroad was in the city of Council Bluffs, and not at Omaha, or north of Omaha, as has been long claimed.

The Government also succeeded in charging upon the property for all time to come the duty of furnishing to the Government, in preference to all other customers, the use of the same for transportation of mails, supplies, munitions of war, and troops, at reasonable rates of compensation not greater than those charged to others.

The Government also succeeded in establishing that the eastern terminus of the Kansas division, formerly known as the Kansas Pacific Railway, is at its junction with the Missouri Pacific Railroad within the city of Kansas City, Mo., 0.51 mile east of the boundary line between the States of Missouri and Kansas.

But it was held by the court that the mortgages upon the Omaha bridge are, to the amount now remaining due, of more than $1,200,000 superior in lien to the subsidy lien of the United States.

It was also held that the large amounts of money and assets in the hands of the receivers, amounting in net value to more than $2,000,000, should be sold with the railway as integral portions thereof, the effect of which will be to make this part of the property easily attainable by the purchaser, instead of being held until after adjustment of the accounts of the receivers, and for disposition at a later date in favor of other creditors than the first mortgagees, as was contended for by me in behalf of the United States.

The importance of this proposition will be manifest when it is remembered that the guarantied bid of the reorganization committee was a sum additional to and exclusive of the first mortgage controlled by that committee, and that this addition to the property exposed to sale rendered it feasible for the reorganization committee to acquire assets of large value, consisting to a considerable extent of money, without paying for it more than they had guarantied to bid for the railway and equipment.

At the instance of the Attorney-General, at a later date Judge Sanborn caused to be inserted in the decree for sale of the main line from Council Bluffs to the western terminal point beyond Ogden a provision to the effect that all rights of the United States not disposed of by the decree should be reserved to the United States.

The object of this provision was to prevent any possible implication, presumption, or estoppel in favor of a purchaser which might exclude any future claim of the United States with reference to matters not explicitly considered and disposed of by the decree, and was considered of importance because of the danger of uncertainty and confusion arising from the dual relation occupied by the Government to the property—that of Government on the one hand, and on the other the contractual relations evidenced by the statutes under which the company was organized and the subsidy granted, which may possibly present important questions hereafter.

Dissatisfied with such of these results as were adverse to the contention of the United States, the undersigned, under your instructions, prepared and caused to be printed and made ready for use petitions for appeal in the primary foreclosure suit brought by the United States at Omaha, and from the decree upon the bill to foreclose the first mortgage in Nebraska, but before the same had been filed the reorganization committee, desiring to avoid the consequences of such action by the Government, proposed to the Attorney-General to increase their bid from $45,754,059.99 to $50,000,000, which having been accepted, no use was made of the petitions for appeal, and the cause was allowed to proceed to sale. In this arrangement no agreement was entered into by the Government, except to waive its right of appeal.

The points sought to be secured by appeal were all measurable in money, and the increased bid had the same effect as a reversal upon appeal, to an amount equal to all that could have been gained by appeal. But it was well understood that the Government thereby waived and yielded no other right than that of appeal.

Subsequently I was instructed by you to move for the postponement of the sales. Accordingly, I proceeded to St. Paul with the view of presenting to Judge Sanborn a motion for postponement of the sale of the main line and Kansas division in pursuance to said instructions; but before such motion could be heard the reorganization committee determined to increase their bid to the whole amount due to the Government on the main line and to withdraw objections to the postponement of the sale of the Kansas division, which had been advertised to take place, the former at Omaha on November 1 and 2 and the latter at Topeka and Salina, in Kansas, on succeeding days of the same week.

Entries were made by the court ordering such postponement; the sale of the main line proceeded without further let or hindrance, the Government withdrawing its motion, and on November 1, the reorganization committee being the only bidder, the railroad extending from Council Bluffs to the western terminal point 5 miles beyond Ogden, with its branches, franchises, and equipment, were struck off and sold to Lewis Fitzgerald and Alvin W. Krech, as purchasing trustees, on behalf of the mortgagees, creditors, and stockholders associated together for the reorganiz: n of the company, for the sum of $58,448,223.75, being the total amount due the Government, as stated by the Secretary of the Treasury, including the sum of $4,549,368.26, cash in the sinking fund.

This cash in the sinking fund is, by the terms of the decree, to be applied to the credit of the United States upon the confirmation of this purchase.

The sale was confirmed by the court on November 6, 1897, by a decree reciting the price, exclusive of sinking fund, at $40,253,605.49, but subject to a credit of whatever amount the Government may have received for sinking fund or otherwise, or owe for transportation for the quarter ending September 30, 1897, and the month of October, whenever the same shall be ascertained and stated.

Thus, as far as the main line is concerned, this important litigation has happily ended to the great advantage of the Government, which will be reimbursed in full for all its advances by way of subsidy to the Union Pacific Railroad Company, with interest thereon at 6 per cent per annum.

By the terms of the decrees, the reorganization committee acquire the railroad property and franchises with equipment (70 per cent of the entire Union Pacific equipment) and all other assets, but subject to all the liabilities of the receivers, charged also with the expenses of the litigation and sale.

The sale of the Kansas Division in Kansas and Missouri now stands postponed until the 15th day of December next.

All that need be said further is that the closest attention of your subordinates, including the undersigned, will continue to be given to the protection of the Government in those cases, in order that the best possible results may be worked out for the benefit of the United States.

At the date of the filing of the bills for foreclosure the Attorney-General (Harmon) deemed it unnecessary to continue in office any other of my associates except Mr. Vaile, of Denver, and General Cowin, of Omaha. Since this date Mr. Vaile has had but little to do for the Government except the filing of the ancillary bill for the foreclosure of that part of the property covered by the subsequent subsidy lien which lies within the State of Colorado, and to assist the undersigned and General Cowin in taking the decrees which had been already prepared and approved by Judge Sanborn at the opening of court in Denver for that purpose. Mr. Vaile has been ready and willing to serve the Government in the premises, but there has been no necessity for calling upon him for aid except in these particulars.

I have received from General Cowin constant and most intelligent assistance from time to time during the whole period and in all the services that have been rendered at the West during the progress of this litigation. He procured the original order at St. Louis for the service of writs upon the receivers, and from that time to the present has been faithful and assiduous in the performance of his duties in the premises.

All these services, both of my associates and myself, have been performed under the supervision and guidance of the Attorney-General, to whom I desire to acknowledge my very great indebtedness for most intelligent and careful supervision, direction, and guidance, and for that wise exercise of judgment which has led to the agreeable results described in this report.

Respectfully submitted.

GEO. HOADLY.

Gen. LOUIS FITZGERALD, 120 Broadway, City.

DEAR SIR: As you are probably aware, I have, for more than two years past, had charge, under the direction of the Attorney-General of the United States, as special assistant to him, of the interests of the United States in the matter of its issue of subsidy bonds and its lien securing the same upon the Union Pacific Railroad.

The defeat of the proposed funding bill by the House of Representatives renders it certain that the President, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Attorney-General must look in some other direction for the protection of the interests of the United States.

After a careful consideration by the late and present Attorney-General and by myself, it was decided at an early stage in the history of the Pacific Railroad litigation that the Government should not appear in that cause until parties responsible and competent to act should appear who would enter into some definite arrangement for a bid upon the property (including the sinking fund) at such a rate as would afford reasonable protection to the interests of the United States, and yet not prevent competition, which might result in larger offers.

It has been informally suggested that the committee of reorganization, of which you are chairman, are prepared to enter into engagements to make a bid on the sale of the Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific Railways, and of the sinking fund of the Union Pacific Railway, of a sum which, without debarring the Government from accepting a higher bid at such sale, would afford some reasonable approximation to the value of the rights of the Government as a second mortgagee of the property, if it should prove to be the highest and best bid.

I therefore solicit from you an early response, to be communicated by me to the executive department of the Government, as to whether your committee would be willing to fix a sum which they would be willing to bid at a sale if procured in foreclosure, and which would carry a perfect title to the property, barring the United States as well as the first mortgagees from future claims, so that we may know before commencing proceedings that we are secured at least an approximate equivalent to the value of the property as the result of the prosecution of a foreclosure case such as the Attorney-General is authorized to bring.

I shall be glad if you will kindly take up this matter for early action, and if your committee are willing to bind themselves to make such a bid, please accompany your reply with detailed suggestions as to how the performance may be secured to the satisfaction of the Government.

Yours, truly,

GEO. HOADLY.

CENTRAL PACIFIC INDEBTEDNESS.

The general features of the relations between the Government and the Central Pacific Railroad Company (which includes what was the Western Pacific Railroad Company) are the same as those between the Government and Union Pacific, notwithstanding the Central Pacific was originally a California corporation. (California v. Pacific Railroad Company, 127 U. S., 1.)

Its indebtedness to the Government on the first instant was as follows:

Bonds loaned—
Central Pacific.....	$25, 885, 120. 00
Western Pacific.....	1, 970, 560. 00
Interest paid by United States:
Central Pacific.....	44, 640, 220. 44
Western Pacific.....	3, 313, 919. 34
Accrued interest, four months, unpaid:
Central Pacific.....	396, 222. 40
Western Pacific.....	33, 011. 20
Interest repaid:
By transportation, Central Pacific.....	8, 057, 699. 33
By cash, Central Pacific.....	658, 283. 26
By transportation, Western Pacific.....	9, 367. 00
Balance by interest not repaid:
Central Pacific.....	35, 924, 237. 85
Western Pacific.....	3, 304, 552. 34

Total indebtedness:

Central Pacific.....	$61,909,357.85
Western Pacific.....	5,275,115.34
<hr/>
Grand total payable by Central Pacific.....	67,184,473.19
Sinking fund Central Pacific bonds	437,000.00
Sinking fund Central Pacific cash.....	7,003,569.31
<hr/>
Total sinking fund.....	7,440,569.31

Crediting the company with all possible items, disputed as well as admitted to be due to it, there will be due from it on the 1st of January next $46,752,087.92.

What steps may be taken to meet this indebtedness in the meantime remains to be seen, and the action of the Department will depend upon the circumstances existing at that date, no action having thus far been taken in order to avoid any question arising out of the claim of the company that by reason of the credits to which it is entitled it has not yet been in default.

GOVERNMENT IN ALASKA.

The present system of government in Alaska was provided for a few settlements on islands and on that part of the coast which pertains to the comparatively narrow panhandle nearest to California. To these settlements, practically and theoretically to the whole vast territory (eleven times the size of New York), the laws of the United States, with some exceptions, and the laws of Oregon in force in 1884, were extended by the organic act of that year.

A district court, sitting at Wrangell, on the coast, and Sitka, on an island—and elsewhere when the judge thinks proper—and five commissioners (two at Kadiak and Unalaska, on islands, and the others at Sitka, Wrangell, and Juneau, a coast town) constituted the local judiciary until the act of June 4 of this year. By that act four additional commissioners, with a deputy marshal for each, were authorized. One of these commissioners and one deputy will be at St. Michaels, on the west coast; one at Unga, on an island, and one commissioner, with a deputy, is at Dyce, a short distance inland, on the southern panhandle.

The remaining commissioner and his deputy have been assigned to Circle City, in what is called the Klondike region of the interior. A governor, clerk of the court, marshal, ten deputy marshals, and a district attorney are provided for, and the functions of secretary and treasurer of the Territory, justice of the peace, probate judge, notary, register of the land office, receiver, surveyor-general, collector of customs, examining magistrate, register of deeds and wills, etc., are distributed among the officers above named. All the ordinary legal needs of the community are afforded by the laws of Oregon and of the United States. But, while the nature of the system may be unobjectionable, it is obviously inadequate in personnel and local extent to afford protection and control to the vast interior of the Territory.

It is well known that a rush of population into a region nearly a thousand miles from any of the towns named, except Circle City (where the whole government consists, in fact, of a commissioner and deputy marshal), has begun and promises, in the coming spring, to attain large proportions. Just where it will extend, and where it will remain, depend largely upon the future discovery of gold or other valuable products of the largely unexplored country; but it now seems that the valleys of the Yukon and White rivers, near the British boundary, will be largely filled up with prospectors, and to some extent permanently settled. Circle City, Mitchell, Clinton, etc., have been established near the Yukon, and a few weeks of next spring may suffice for the establishment of other towns, some of which may be abandoned for more promising sites.

As it is to the interest of the Government to encourage the development and settlement of the country, and its duty to follow up its citizens there with the benefits of legal machinery, I earnestly urge upon Congress the suggestion that a duplicate of the present system of government be provided, with such flexibility as will enable it to adjust itself to the future areas of greatest population for part of the region of interior country north of the sixtieth parallel of latitude and near the British boundary, or that regular Territorial governments be provided for both parts of Alaska, as the wisdom of Congress may determine.

IMPORTANT SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

Among the important decisions of the Supreme Court in which the Government was a party or concerned may be noted:

The Conqueror (166 U. S., 110), wherein was decided that after a mandate sent from the circuit court of appeals to the circuit court a writ of certiorari may issue from the Supreme Court to bring up the record, and application for the writ could be made after six months and should probably be made within a year, and certainly within a reasonable time, after decree below.

In re Chapman (166 U. S., 661). In this case the constitutional power of Congress to make it a misdemeanor not to answer pertinent questions put to a witness by either House of Congress or a committee was upheld, and also the provision of Revised Statutes, 103, that such a witness shall not be excused upon the ground that his testimony will tend to disgrace him or render him infamous.

In Northern Pacific Railroad Co. v. Saunders (166 U. S., 620) it was held that where a grant to a railroad company excepted lands not free from preemption "or other rights or claims" at the time of the definite location of the road, the defendant could rely upon the claim of another made under the mineral land laws, although it did not appear what had become of the claim and did appear that the land was admitted to be not mineral, and that such land remained subject to be acquired and disposed of as land of the United States.

In Wight v. United States (167 U. S., 512) the question what constituted transportation "under substantially similar circumstances and conditions" within the meaning of section 2 of the interstate-commerce act of February 4, 1887, forbidding discriminating charges, was considered and the law held to be violated.

In Dunlop v. United States (165 U. S., 486) several important questions of evidence in connection with the offense of depositing in the mails a newspaper containing obscene and indecent matter were passed upon unfavorably to the accused, the publisher of the paper, and the definition of such matter was considered.

In France v. United States (164 U. S., 676) it was held that the act of March 2, 1895, for the suppression of lottery traffic through national and interstate commerce, was not violated, because the lottery had already been drawn before the acts in question were done, and the law looked to future drawings.

THE SUPREME COURT.

The accompanying table shows the result of last year's work of the Supreme Court of the United States so far as the number of cases can show it. There was a decrease of 98 in the number of cases docketed on the appellate docket, and a decrease of 55 in the number disposed of, the number remaining having been reduced thereby from 533 to 383.

	Appellate docket—October term.
	1890.	1891.	1892.	1893.	1894.	1895.	1896.
Cases at close of previous term not disposed of	1,177	1,190	1,073	934	714	640	533
Cases docketed at the term	623	379	275	280	332	382	284
Total	1,800	1,569	1,348	1,214	1,046	1,022	817
Cases disposed of at the term	610	406	414	500	400	489	434
Cases remaining undisposed of	1,190	1,073	934	714	640	533	383

The appellate docket at the close of the last term shows a decrease of 150 pending cases since the close of the preceding term. At the close of the October term, 1895, there remained undisposed of on the appellate docket 533 cases and upon the original docket 6 cases, making a total of 539. The number of cases docketed at the October term, 1896, was 295, of which 284 were on the appellate and 11 on the original docket, making the total number of cases pending at that term 834, of which 817 were on the appellate and 17 on the original docket. Of this number, 447 were disposed of during the October term, 1896, of which 434 were on the appellate and 13 on the original docket, leaving undisposed of at the close of the October term, 1896, 387 cases, of which 383 were on the appellate and 4 on the original docket.

The number of cases actually considered by the court was 338, of which 185 were argued orally and 153 submitted on printed arguments. Of the 434 appellate cases disposed of, 159 were affirmed, 82 reversed, 89 dismissed, 61 settled by the parties and dismissed, in 9 questions.

certified were answered, and 34 were denials of petitions for writs of certiorari under the act of March 3, 1891.

The total number of cases on the appellate docket in which the United States was a party or had a substantial interest disposed of at the October term, 1896, was 115. The United States was appellant, etc., in 41 of these cases, and appellee, etc., in 69 (2 being cross-appèals), in 5 cases was not a party to the record, was petitioner in 1, and respondent in petitions for writs of certiorari in 2; 1 was a certification of a question, and 1 was a certification of division in opinion.

Of the 41 cases appealed, etc., by the Government, 14 were decided in its favor and 18 adversely; 6 cases were dismissed by it, 1 was dismissed per stipulation, and 2 were dismissed by the court. In addition, in 1 case, in which a question was certified, it was answered adversely by the Government, and 1 case, in which there was a certificate of division in opinion, was dismissed.

Of the 69 cases in which the Government was appellee, etc., 17 were determined in its favor and 35 adversely, 2 were dismissed by the appellants, etc., 7 were dismissed by the court for failure of the appellant, etc., to comply with the rules, 1 was docketed and dismissed, 4 were dismissed for want of jurisdiction, in 1 error was confessed, and 1 case, in which the Government was cross-appellant, was decided partly in its favor, and 1 was reversed by stipulation.

Of the above 115 cases 26 were appeals from the Court of Claims. Of these 16 were taken by the Government, 1 being a cross appeal. Of the 16 cases so appealed 6 were decided in its favor and 7 adversely, 1 was dismissed by the court, 1 dismissed per stipulation, and in 1 the Government was a stakeholder, while of the 10 cases in which it was appellee 8 were decided in its favor, in 1 it was a stakeholder, and 1 was dismissed per stipulation.

Of the 115 cases disposed of 37 were criminal, of which 11 were decided in favor of the United States and 14 adversely, 7 were dismissed by the court for failure of the plaintiffs in error to comply with the rules, 1 was dismissed by the plaintiff in error, in 1 error was confessed by the United States, and 3 were dismissed by the court for want of jurisdiction.

Twelve of these 37 criminal cases were capital, of which 4 were decided in favor of the United States and 7 adversely, and in 1 a certificate of division in opinion was dismissed by the court.

Sixteen cases were appeals, etc., from the circuit courts of appeals, of which 9 were decided in favor of, 5 against, and 2 partly against the United States, and in 2 additional the United States was not a party to the record. In addition to these 16 cases there was 1 certification of a question which was answered adversely to the United States.

Twelve cases were from the Court of Private Land Claims, 11 of which were appealed by the Government. Of these, 3 were decided in favor of the United States and 1 adversely; 7 were dismissed by the United States, and 1, in which the United States was appellee, was dismissed for noncompliance with the rules.

In 3 cases in which the United States was petitioner, petitions for certiorari under the act of March 3, 1891, were granted, and on final hearing the decision was in favor of the United States in 1 case, against it in 1 case, and in 1 case partly in favor of the United States. In 2 other cases in which the United States was respondent the petitions for certiorari were denied.

The above do not include 7 cases on the original docket, all of which were decided in favor of the United States.

Of the whole number of cases in which the Government had a substantial interest heard and decided by the court, 60 were decided in favor of and 38 against the United States.

COURT OF CLAIMS.

The report of Assistant Attorney-General Pradt (Exhibit 2) is referred to as giving very full and precise information concerning the business of the Court of Claims during the past year. The magnitude of the interest of the Government in the proper defense of claims against it is well known to Congress, and I need not call attention to the importance of that branch of the Department's business as shown in that report.

The Assistant Attorney-General recommends, as did his predecessor, the abolition of the claims jurisdiction of circuit and district courts, so that but one court will determine the law concerning claims against the Government. He points out that the most contradictory decisions are rendered in like cases in different districts, and that uniformity can be obtained at present only by appeals to the Supreme Court. More serious embarrassments arise from the fact that many of the claims were preferred by officials of the Government connected with the courts themselves, and, while the partial change to the salary system has to a great extent remedied this, I concur in the recommendation of the Assistant Attorney-General.

Favorable attention is called to the recommendation, which was ineffectually repeated year after year by some of my predecessors, that the salaries of the assistant attorneys in this Department should be equalized and made $4,000 per annum. The ordinarily temporary character of such employment does not well justify an attorney who has an increasing practice paying him half that amount to abandon it for temporary employment, distant from his home, at $4,000. It would seem to be the reverse of economical and wise to employ lawyers to defend suits involving many millions of dollars at compensation less than private corporations would under the circumstances expect to pay.

The La Abra claim, growing out of claims and awards against Mexico, has been declared fraudulent by the Court of Claims and an appeal taken to the Supreme Court. The case is set down for hearing in March next. The similar case of United States v. Alice Weil is still pending in the former court.

INDIAN DEPREDAATION CLAIMS.

The report of Assistant Attorney-General Thompson, in charge of the defense of Indian depredation claims (Exhibit 3), is referred to for a detailed account of that business. The amount originally claimed in those cases, $43,515,867.06, suffices to show the great interest of the Government in their proper defense.

An important question as to the liability of an Indian tribe to have its annuities taken to pay claimants where individuals of the tribe stole property and the tribe was never appealed to for satisfaction, as required by treaties and statutes, has been advanced for early hearing in the Supreme Court. The decision will determine many cases, and, if favorable to the Government and Indian tribes, will considerably reduce the total amount to be paid on account of this class of claims.

SOLICITOR OF THE TREASURY.

The business of the office of the Solicitor of the Treasury during the last fiscal year is shown by his report, Exhibit I.

Among the numerous interesting facts stated by him, it appears that 3,456 suits were commenced; that 1,798 were decided in favor of the United States, 59 adversely, 460 settled and dismissed, leaving 1,139 still pending; that the number of suits decided or otherwise disposed of during the year was 4,571; that the whole amount for which judgment was obtained, exclusive of decrees in rem, was $548,388.70, and the entire amount collected from all sources was $252,092.74. The number of opinions rendered was 117.

Attention is called to the recommendation of the Solicitor that an appropriation be made to enable him to complete the set of State Reports for his library, he having no reports of Idaho, South Dakota, North Dakota, South Carolina, Utah, Washington, Wyoming, or any of the Territories; and to his recommendation that the two fourth-class clerks who keep the principal dockets in his office, and the fourth-class clerk performing the duties of law clerk, have their salaries raised to $2,000 per annum. The necessity for a complete library for the Solicitor's office would seem to need no argument, in view of the multiplicity and importance of the legal business there transacted.

CIRCUIT COURTS OF APPEALS.

The state of business in these courts is shown by Exhibit 1. The cases docketed during the past fiscal year were 775, being a decrease of 40 from the preceding year; 729 cases were disposed of, being a decrease of 95, leaving 547 cases pending at the close of the fiscal year, being an increase of 46. One hundred and forty-three cases have been argued and await decision, as against 204, and 33 have been taken to the Supreme Court of the United States, as against 56 in the preceding year. I think it is generally conceded that these courts have justified their creation by accomplishing what was expected of them.

The necessity for additional circuit judges was brought to the attention of Congress by my predecessor in the report for 1894, and the Congress has provided an additional judge each for the seventh, eighth, and ninth circuits. I beg to repeat the recommendation in the last report, that the same may be done at the coming session for the fifth and sixth circuits. I invite special attention to the table showing the amount of business brought and disposed of in the various circuits. The district judges are, as a rule, more busily occupied in the sixth and fifth circuits than in many of the others, which affords an additional reason for giving those two circuits, but especially the sixth, another circuit judge.

My attention has been repeatedly called to the unnecessary expenses imposed on litigants in such courts, which should be avoided by an amendment of the act of March 3, 1891, establishing these courts. The practice in most of the State courts is to make the transcript of the record on appeal contain the original papers, pleadings, bills of exception, depositions, etc., filed in the court below, with a copy of docket and journal entries and orders. The present law requires all original papers, etc., to be copied into the transcript, entailing very great and unnecessary expense. The proposed amendment would require the transcript to be made up of such original papers, etc., involving the copying of only docket and journal entries and orders. The fact that records are printed on appeal emphasizes the uselessness of the labor and expense involved in the present mode of making up such transcripts.

The business of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia is separately shown as heretofore. There has been a further diminution in the cases undisposed of, there having been only 43 pending July 1, 1897, and 7 argued and awaiting decision.

BUSINESS OF THE FEDERAL COURTS.

The following tables, compiled from the detailed statements which accompany this and former reports, show the growth and present condition of the business of the Government in the Federal courts:

CRIMINAL CASES.

Cases pending July 1—

1894	10,370
1895	12,495
1896	11,746
1897	10,958

1895	12, 183
1896	10, 465
1897	10, 255

The rapid increase of the expenses of the Federal courts was shown by the table at page 4 of the report for 1895.

These expenses were as follows:

Fiscal year—

1894	$6,338,415.99
1895	7,102,307.51
1896	6,460,791.27
1897 (paid in 1897)	5,116,613.69

The last two items are from payments already made, and omit payments yet to be made, which, for 1897, will be considerable in amount.

COURT OF PRIVATE LAND CLAIMS.

The report of Special Attorney Reynolds (Exhibit 4) shows in detail the business done by the Court of Private Land Claims during the past year.

The importance of the work of this court to the Government's interests and the still greater importance of it in settling titles in a large section of the country require no special argument. Large portions of the public domain have been saved by recent decisions of the Supreme Court upon some of these claims. In the New Mexico district, 57 cases have been disposed of, wherein there were claims to 2,612,355 acres, which have been rejected to the amount of 2,434,494 acres.

THE LIBRARY.

The importance of a large law library to this Department need not be seriously argued, nor is the expensiveness of many legal publications unknown to Congress. Yet for years past the Attorney-General has recommended without success an increase in the appropriations of $2,250 and $750 and a special appropriation of $5,000 for the purchase of books. I again recommend appropriations of $2,750 and $5,000.

The report of the librarian, appended, calls attention to the need of more room for the library. That need is no more real, however, for the books than for the officers of the Department, and I may take this opportunity to say that the Department has outgrown the building it occupies. It may have escaped attention that this building, owing to high ceilings, affords less floor room than it appears to have, and that the whole force is crowded upon four stories, one wholly occupied by the new accounts division. Besides the rooms of the library and that division, the total number of rooms, large and small, is twenty, some of them hardly entitled to be called rooms. I recommend that some provision be made for a suitable building, as well as temporary relief for the library.

PARDONS.

The report of the attorney in charge of pardons (Exhibit Q.) contains the following, covering the fiscal year 1897:

Applications filed.....	669
Pardons granted	80
Pardons granted conditionally	5
Sentences commuted	98
Restorations to citizenship	31
Respites	5
Fines remitted.....	5
Applications denied by the President.....	110

EXPENSES OF DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.

The expenses of the Department proper for the past year, including all items, were $319,124.23.

REVISION OF UNITED STATES CRIMINAL LAWS.

Under the act of Congress of June 4, 1897, the President appointed Messrs. A. C. Thompson, Alex. C. Botkin, and D. B. Culberson commissioners to revise and codify, under the direction of the Attorney-General, the criminal and penal laws of the United States. The commissioners have established themselves in the Kellogg Building, No. 1416 F street, Washington, and have made encouraging progress in their work.

It is hoped that the numerous defects in a body of laws which grew up without system and largely in consequence of the perception of particular evils to be remedied or prevented, in connection with the subject-matters of civil legislation, will now be cured.

UNITED STATES PRISONERS AND PRISONS.

The status of United States prisoners, with relation to the places of their confinement, employment, and treatment, has not materially changed since the last annual report to Congress.

On June 30, 1897, there were confined in the various prisons and reformatories of the country 3,077 United States prisoners. The number so confined on June 30, 1896, was 3,012, showing an increase of but 65 during the year. In the previous fiscal year, from June 30, 1895, to June 30, 1896, the increase was 496. These figures would seem to indicate that the acme, as to numbers, has been reached, and it may be fairly questioned whether the total number of Federal convicts for whom provision must be made in the future will greatly exceed 3,000 at any time, if not possibly less.

The present United States penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth can accommodate about 500 prisoners, so that at least 2,500 remain to be cared for in the various institutions of the States and Territories, subject to the treatment and discipline peculiar to each. It may seem hardly necessary to dwell upon the disadvantages of such a system, as they have been frequently referred to in former reports, but I fear I should be derelict in duty should I fail to again briefly invite the attention of Congress to this feature of the subject. In districts where there are first-class prisons, the use of which is allowed for the confinement of Federal convicts, the situation is not so objectionable, as the courts in those districts are authorized to sentence prisoners to such institutions without particular designation by the Attorney-General, who has no proper means of inspecting them. Convicts of this class are also, measurably at least, under the eye of the court and its officers, and the number of Federal prisoners in each of such prisons is not large. But there are many other districts in which either no suitable State prison is maintained, or where those existing are not allowed to receive Federal prisoners, and from such districts a large number are annually sentenced, for whose care and maintenance special arrangements must be effected.

What was said upon this subject in the last annual report, calling attention to the importance and necessity of providing for the erection of suitable Government prisons, is now repeated in the hope that proper action will be taken.

"United States convicts are now confined in the prisons of more than thirty States and Territories, to which they are sentenced and left without any special provision for subsequent inquiry or supervision by Federal authority. No State thus disposes of its prisoners, and the reasons which induced this policy on the part of the General Government have lost their force.

But so long as the present practice of scattering Federal convicts throughout the States and Territories continues, specific provision should at least be made for frequent inspections under direction of the Attorney-General with a view to ascertaining their condition and treatment and discharging the duty involved in the relation of the Government toward them. Such examinations of this nature as have been heretofore conducted have been made as opportunity permitted, with but slight attempt at regularity, and by officers or employees temporarily assigned to that work as incidental to the discharge of other duties at the same time.

The results of these infrequent investigations, however, have been sufficient to show the need of measures for more adequate governmental supervision. The necessity for suitable United States prisons and reformatories has been heretofore urged in the reports to Congress from this Department, and it is believed that the time for adequate provision to that end has fully arrived. In considering the subject the question of economy should not be deemed the only one of importance. The fact that almost the entire practice with regard to the imprisonment of United States convicts is still antiquated and inefficient is but too evident, and furnishes sufficient warrant for the substitution of better and newer methods.

An act was passed by the Fifty-first Congress authorizing the purchase of sites for the erection of three United States prisons, but was held to be inoperative because it carried no appropriation. Should it be deemed inexpedient now to make an appropriation sufficient to carry out the original purposes of that law, it is suggested that at least one penitentiary should be established in a Southern State for the confinement of convicts from Southern districts. This measure seems to me to be imperatively demanded for reasons of humanity as well as economy. But few State institutions in that section can be used for Federal prisoners, who are consequently sent to penitentiaries in Northern districts. The change of climate involved results injuriously, and Executive clemency is frequently invoked and exercised on the ground alone that the prisoner's health has been permanently broken and incurable disease contracted by the severity of the Northern winters.

It has been ascertained that there are in the South quite a large number of reservations belonging to the Government, military and otherwise, among which a suitable site for a prison could doubtless be selected. If not, offers made after the passage of the act just mentioned show that the land required would doubtless be furnished free of cost to the Government.

I deem it proper to state further that the use of prisons and penitentiaries in at least one State to which many of the prisoners (nearly one-third of the entire number) convicted in the United States courts in districts outside of that State have heretofore been sent is now closed by law to that class of convicts. As the Government has no prisons of its own which are adequate to meet the requirements of the situation, the courts in certain districts must sentence convicts to local prisons wholly unsuited for their proper care and employment, or such provisions in other directions as may be found practicable must from time to time be made by the Department. It seems not unlikely that the time will soon arrive when the Government will be compelled to erect prisons of its own, for the reason, if no other, that those of the States will be entirely closed to Federal convicts. It may be of interest to note that there are now confined in four prisons of as many States 1,400 United States prisoners, sent there from outside districts.

The tendency of recent legislation in the States on the subject of prison labor seems to be toward confining it within the narrowest possible limits, making it difficult for conductors of penal institutions to dispose of the products of such labor. Without raising the question of the wisdom of such enactments, I refer to the fact in so far only as the advantageous disposal of our own prisoners is affected by it, because it is evident that if they can not be profitably employed in confinement the cost of their maintenance will be correspondingly increased, and also the difficulties in the way of effecting arrangements for them at the best institutions."

UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY AT FORT LEAVENWORTH, KANS.

The second annual report of the warden of the United States penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth appears as Exhibit L, and covers the history of the institution for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897. On that date 525 convicts were in confinement. The warden shows that the general condition of the institution is satisfactory, except, possibly, in the matter of expense, the per capita cost of maintaining the prison being somewhat higher than in the case of State institutions. This is largely due to the fact that the items of expense in which the excess occurs are necessarily as large in conducting the prison with its limited capacity as they would be were the accommodations sufficient for a much larger number of convicts. The same general establishment must be maintained for 525 prisoners—the limit of the institution—which would be requisite for one nearly double that capacity.

The guard force must be sufficiently strong to safely keep the prisoners while engaged in outdoor labor, which is the only kind of occupation upon which they can be engaged. Besides, the buildings were not constructed with a view to the confinement of desperate criminals, and a larger number of guards than would otherwise be necessary must be employed on that account. These expenses serve to make the cost per capita seemingly large. Proper credit for the labor of the prisoners, however, if taken into account, would considerably reduce this. It will be observed that the actual cost of subsistence is quite low, amounting to about 11 cents a day per man; at the same time the food supplies have been ample and wholesome. The health of the prison has been excellent, but three deaths having occurred during the year. The penitentiary. While but a comparatively small sum has thus far been expended, large outlays will be requisite as soon as the construction of the penitentiary is commenced, where purchases of iron, steel, and other materials will become necessary. For this purpose $50,000 is included in the estimate for the year 1889 to be made. The appropriation will be expended only as actually required, and as it progresses.

MCNEIL'S ISLAND, WASHINGTON.

On January 22, 1867, provision was made for a Federal penitentiary in Washington Territory, the appropriation for this purpose being limited to $250,000. On February 22, 1873, Congress authorized an increased appropriation of about $1,000,000, in a suitable condition for the construction of a penitentiary. No moneys since this time have been appropriated by Congress for this penitentiary.

On February 22, 1889, providing for the admission of the Territory of Washington into the Union as a State, the attention was called in 1890 to section 15 of said act, which provided for the transfer of McNeil's Island to the State of Washington. The governor of the State declined to accept of the same, on the ground that the prisoners therein, until specific authority was conferred on him by the legislature of the State, could never be done, and the United States Attorney-General to the effect that the same should be done as before, and it has since been, and is now, a Federal institution.

There have been convicted and sentenced prisoners on the island, except the more desperate convicts, where they can be more securely confined. The States penitentiary, which are old and in an insecure condition, and the same should be continued as a place of confinement, for the erection of buildings of which can be securely confined, in which the confinement of all prisoners convicted on the Pacific Slope who are sentenced to the penitentiary. In the absence of such provision should be authorized by Congress to the effect that the per capita cost of maintaining the same, and subsisting prisoners, is about 70 detailed statement by the warden of the labor performed by the convicts during the year is interesting, and shows that, while resulting in no actual gain in money, it was necessary and important and that a large advantage to the Government accrued thereby.

NEW PENITENTIARY.

Under the act of Congress approved June 10, 1896, the erection of a new prison on the Fort Leavenworth Reservation was authorized, and about 1,000 acres of land have been set apart as admirably suited for this purpose. Under appropriations since made an architect has been employed, plans and specifications for the new buildings have been prepared and approved, and considerable preliminary work has been accomplished. As reported by the warden and the architect, the topography and drainage of the site have been determined, the grades have been established, new quarries for stone have been opened, and several thousand tons of stone have been crushed for use in the foundations. The architect reports that nearly all the work preliminary to the construction of the buildings and walls has been completed and the actual work upon the new prison is well started and under way.

The site of the new prison being about 3 miles distant from the present penitentiary, it has been found necessary to repair and construct roads and bridges, which has been done. The quarry from which stone for the construction of the new buildings is to be taken has been opened up, arrangements for working the quarry, such as the erection of feeding sheds for the convicts, barbed-wire fencing, etc., have been made, and quantities of stone have been quarried.

The report of the architect, dated October 2, 1897, showing progress made, is hereto attached as Exhibit L.

The act of June 10, 1896, for the erection of the new prison provides that it shall accommodate not less than 1,200 convicts, and the plans as approved have been prepared in compliance with said requirement. They were adopted after careful consideration and comparison with the best prisons in the country, and are believed to be admirably suited to the ends in view. It can hardly be expected that the buildings will be completed as soon as they would be if erected entirely by skilled labor and under contract, but the work will undoubtedly be well done, and will furnish employment to convicts who would otherwise be supported in idleness. The evils of confining prisoners unemployed have been illustrated in several State institutions where former modes of prison labor have been discontinued, and the problem of substituting proper employment is now receiving the earnest attention of the authorities interested. It is exceedingly fortunate that provision has been made for employing the Federal prisoners at Fort Leavenworth on the new prison work.

For the half year ending June 30, 1897, and the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898, $25,000 and $50,000, respectively, have been appropriated toward the erection of the new penitentiary. While but a comparatively small proportion of these amounts has thus far been expended in the preliminary work, larger expenditures will be requisite as soon as the enterprise reaches the point where purchases of iron, steel, lumber, and other structural materials become necessary. For this reason the additional appropriation of $50,000 included in the estimates for the fiscal year 1899 should undoubtedly be made. The appropriation being continuous, the money will be expended only as actually required by the necessities of the work as it progresses.

UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY, M'NEIL'S ISLAND, WASHINGTON.

Under the act of Congress approved January 22, 1867, provision was made for the erection of a United States penitentiary in Washington Territory, the amount to be expended for this purpose being limited to $20,000. The act approved February 22, 1873, authorized an increased sum of $20,000, and in 1874 an additional appropriation of about $7,000 was made to place the buildings in a suitable condition for the reception and confinement of convicts. No moneys since this time have been specifically appropriated by Congress for this penitentiary.

After the approval of the act of February 22, 1889, providing for the admission of Washington Territory into the Union as a State, the attention of Federal officials therein was called in 1890 to section 15 of said act, which the Department seemed to hold provided for the transfer of the United States penitentiary on McNeil's Island to the State of Washington. Instructions to this effect were given the then United States marshal, district of Washington, but the governor of the State declined to accept the institution with the prisoners therein, until specific authority for its acceptance had been conferred on him by the legislature of Washington. This apparently has never been done, and the United States marshal was accordingly directed by the Attorney-General to continue to conduct the penitentiary as before, and it has since been, and is now, conducted as a Federal institution.

In it are confined prisoners who have been convicted and sentenced in the Federal courts of Washington, except the more desperate convicts, who are sent to State prisons where they can be more securely kept. The buildings of this United States penitentiary, which are old and constructed chiefly of wood, are in an insecure condition, and the necessity exists, if the institution is to be continued as a place of confinement for United States prisoners, for the erection of buildings of modern character where convicts can be securely confined, in which case provision might be made for the confinement of all prisoners convicted of crimes against the United States on the Pacific Slope who are now sent to State penal institutions. In the absence of such provision it is believed that the Department should be authorized by Congress to abandon it entirely. The present per capita cost of maintaining the penitentiary, including guarding and subsisting prisoners, is about 70 or 75 cents per day.

JAIL, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The jail in the District of Columbia is in excellent condition, and its management satisfactory to this Department. The prisoners are well cared for, are well fed at a very reasonable cost, and the institution is maintained at moderate expense. Several necessary repairs have been made, among them a new roof, at a cost of $3,000, which was imperatively necessary. An appropriation has now been made by Congress for a new cell room for female prisoners, the necessity for which has frequently been urged in former reports; the work has been inaugurated and will soon be completed. By these improvements ample accommodations will be afforded for all the female prisoners in a portion of the building entirely separate and apart.

Preparations are also being made to begin the erection of a wall about the inclosure and for needed repairs, under appropriations already provided. It is believed that the jail ranks among the best in the country. During the year ended October 1, 1897, 3,591 prisoners were committed, with a daily average of 9.8. The details concerning them, showing offenses committed, etc., are given in the report of the warden, Exhibit O.

REFORM SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The report of the president of the board of trustees (Exhibit N) shows the condition of the school at the close of the last fiscal year. Since the opening of the school on November 6, 1893, 74 girls have been admitted, of which number 51 have been released as reformed, apprenticed to suitable employments, sent away from the school, etc.

The recommendations made in the report have my approval. The school should be enlarged by additional buildings, which will provide for the care of a larger number of inmates at a small increase of expense, and the amount asked for ($50,000) should, it is believed, be appropriated for this purpose. At present the accommodations are entirely inadequate to the desired end.

Attention is invited to that portion of the president's report in relation to the treasurer of the school. On October 28, 1895, the board of trustees appointed a treasurer, which appointment was confirmed by the District Commissioners on December 18, 1895, on condition that no liability for a salary be incurred until an appropriation is made therefor by Congress. An appropriation was subsequently made of $50 a month, from January 1 to June 30, 1896. No appropriation for this purpose was made, however, for the fiscal year 1897, and only $300 was appropriated for the fiscal year 1898. It seems but just that the treasurer, who seems to have been legally appointed and has rendered efficient service, should be compensated, and the recommendation of the president of the board of trustees for an appropriation of $600 for the fiscal year 1897, and of $300 to make up that amount for the fiscal year 1898, meets my approval.

The suggestions in the last annual report to Congress touching the status of the school as a reformatory and a charitable institution are here repeated.

The school is not a charitable institution, and I again suggest that it be placed in the District appropriation bill under the head of reformatories and prisons, and not under the head of charities, where it has always appeared.

I believe it to be for the interest of the school that the appointments made by the board of trustees should be confirmed or approved by the Attorney-General, and not by the Commissioners of the District, as at present. This would avoid delay, and would place the school in the same relation to the Department as the other Reform School. I can see no reason for any distinction, and its existence gives rise to unnecessary trouble and inconvenience.

OKLAHOMA TERRITORY.

I desire to call attention again to the importance of doing away with the sittings of Federal courts in each county instead of each district only. The Federal business is comparatively light, and great and needless expense is caused by the county system, which exists nowhere else in the country. Of course, the Territorial courts should and do sit in each county.

INDIAN TERRITORY.

The new system of courts in the Indian Territory, and transfer to them of jurisdiction formerly belonging to courts in Texas and Arkansas, have rendered it imperative to establish at least one good jail in each of the three districts. The act of 1895 conferring the jurisdiction required the marshals to provide suitable jails, but made no appropriation for the purpose. The absence of a local or Territorial government owning jails necessitates the erection of buildings by the Government.

SALARIES FOR CLERKS OF COURTS.

The act of May 28, 1896, makes it my duty to report upon the advisability of extending the salary system to clerks of United States courts.

A table (Exhibit U) shows in detail the emoluments and expenses of the clerks' offices during the fiscal year 1897. A similar statement for the fiscal year 1895 is contained in House Document 167, and one for 1896 in Exhibit T of the Attorney-General's last report. These statements afford a basis for fixing salaries in case that course shall be adopted, making proper allowances for changes in amount of business to be expected under the new system.

I know of no good reason for a distinction being made which omits clerks from the salary system.

RESTRAINTS AND MONOPOLIES OF TRADE AND COMMERCE.

The Supreme Court rendered on the 22d of March last a very important decision under the act of Congress of July 2, 1890, United States v.

Trans Missouri Freight Association (166 U. S., 290). The decisions of the lower courts were reversed and it was held that that act applies to railroad companies as well as others; that it applies to all contracts in restraint of trade, and not merely to contracts making unreasonable restraints; that the effect in restraining trade rather than the purpose of the contract is to be inquired into; and that a contract, legal when made, became illegal upon the passage of that act, so that acts done thereafter were done in violation of it. An injunction prohibiting the continuance of the association or of any similar arrangement was upheld. The combination was of eighteen railways west of the Missouri River and was for the purpose of maintaining rates of freight. The case was argued in person by Attorney-General Harmon.

LANDING OF FOREIGN CABLES.

Reference is made to what is said in the last annual report concerning the efforts of foreign cable companies to secure American termini, and to the suits instituted to test the rights of those concerned.

The application referred to in the last report for a temporary injunction to restrain the landing of one of the cables upon Long Island, New York, was denied by Judge Lacombe, partly on the ground that the question was rather political than judicial.

Action by Congress would seem therefore to be demanded, and it is again recommended.

BELL TELEPHONE LITIGATION.

The case of the United States against the Bell Telephone Company and Emil Berliner was on May 10 last decided adversely to the Government, the patent No. 463,569 issued on November 17, 1891, to that company, as assignee of Berliner, being held not improperly issued.

This practically disposes of all contentions between the Government and the Bell Telephone Company.

RAILWAY RECEIVERSHIPS.

The importance of a law confining the jurisdiction of receivership and foreclosure proceedings in the case of the great railroads to the court of one circuit is again called to the attention of Congress. It is needless to say that the appointment of different receivers by several different courts for the same road is troublesome and expensive.

ATTORNEYS FOR THE GOVERNMENT AND CLAIMS AGAINST IT.

The attention of Congress is called to R. S. 5498, prohibiting any person holding any place of trust or profit or discharging any official function from acting as agent or attorney for prosecuting any claim against the Government, in so far as it concerns attorneys employed by this Department under R. S. 363 and 366 to assist the Attorney-General or district attorneys.

While the general purpose of section 5498 is excellent, it creates much embarrassment to the Department and to members of the bar, particularly in the neighborhood of Washington City. The Department is deprived of a free choice of lawyers especially well qualified, and lawyers prevented from accepting employment or, when they happen to be employed by the Department in some one case of long standing, compelled to sacrifice many chances for business.

I would suggest that Revised Statutes, 5498, be modified in such safe manner as Congress may deem best, with a view to avoiding such embarrassment to this Department and to lawyers who may be or, but for Revised Statutes, 5498, would be employed by the Attorney-General.

MISSION INDIANS.

The report of Special Attorney Lewis (Exhibit R) shows the progress made in the litigation in which the Mission Indians are involved, and requires no particular comment.

POTOMAC FLATS LITIGATION.

The Department has engaged the services of Mr. Holmes Conrad, late Solicitor-General, as special attorney to conduct the litigation growing out of the reclamation of the Potomac Flats at Washington. Some claimants have appealed, and one of the cases will be argued and submitted to the Supreme Court in January next.

REFORM SCHOOL, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The report of the board of trustees of the Reform School of the District of Columbia (Exhibit M) shows that at the beginning of the last fiscal year there were in the school 218 boys; there were received during the year 126, a total of 344 as against 328 for the previous year. Seventy-six of those received were committed by the police court and 6 by the supreme court of the District of Columbia, 31 by United States courts outside of the District, and 13 by the president of the board of trustees.

There were discharged during the year, 89 by order of the trustees, 22 by expiration of sentence (United States courts), 3 by order of court (change of sentence), and 6 escaped and are still absent, leaving in the school June 30, 1897, 224. There were no deaths during the year and the general health of the inmates has been and is good.

I repeat the recommendation of last year that Congress should take action upon the suggestion of the board of trustees as to giving it such control of the boys after discharge as will enable it to reclaim and return to the school any boy whose subsequent conduct is bad.

Much has been done at the school during the year in the way of permanent improvements and the extension of the system of instruction in handicrafts and manual training.

I approve of the suggestion of the board as to the placing of the control of the institution entirely under the Department of Justice, where, as a Government institution, it properly belongs.

EXHIBITS ACCOMPANYING THIS REPORT.

Exhibit 1 is a tabular statement showing the number of cases, civil and criminal, before the United States circuit courts of appeals during the fiscal year 1897, with the number disposed of.

Exhibit 2 is a report of the Assistant Attorney-General in charge of the business of the Government in the Court of Claims.

Exhibit 3 is a report of the Assistant Attorney-General in charge of Indian depredation claims.

Exhibit 4 is the report of the United States attorney for the Court of Private Land Claims.

Exhibit A is a statement of the civil suits to which the United States was a party terminated in the circuit and district courts of the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, and of such suits pending in said courts July 1, 1897, as reported by the district attorneys.

In 882 of the 2,524 civil suits terminated during the last fiscal year judgments were for the United States, in 314 against the United States, and 1,328 were either dismissed or discontinued; 66 were appealed to the circuit court, or to the circuit court of appeals, and 11 to the Supreme Court.

Many of the civil suits reported dismissed or discontinued were settled by the authority of the Treasury Department and discontinued under its direction. There were pending July 1, 1897, 7,716 civil suits to which the United States was a party.

Exhibit B is a statement of the criminal prosecutions terminated in the circuit and district courts of the United States during the last fiscal year, and of such prosecutions pending July 1, 1897.

Of the 18,134 criminal prosecutions terminated during the last year 131 were prosecutions under the customs laws, in which there were 77 convictions, 10 acquittals, and 44 were entered nol. pros., discontinued, or quashed; 6,198 under the internal-revenue laws, in which there were 3,386 convictions, 1,027 acquittals, and 1,785 were entered nol. pros., discontinued, or quashed; 1,080 under post-office laws, in which there were 679 convictions, 80 acquittals, and 321 entered nol. pros., discontinued, or quashed; 15 under naturalization acts, in which there were 7 convictions, 3 acquittals, and 5 entered nol. pros., discontinued, or quashed; 487 under the intercourse laws, in which there were 323 convictions, 34 acquittals, and 130 entered nol. pros., discontinued, or quashed; 214 under the pension laws, in which there were 98 convictions, 34 acquittals, and 82 entered nol. pros., discontinued, or quashed; 54 for embezzlement, in which there were 22 convictions, 4 acquittals, and 28 entered nol. pros., discontinued, or quashed; 9,941 miscellaneous prosections, in which there were 5,214 convictions, 1,459 acquittals, and 3,268 entered nol. pros., discontinued, or quashed.

In many of the prosecutions under the internal-revenue laws entered nol. pros., discontinued, or quashed, a compromise and settlement were made in the Internal Revenue Bureau of the Treasury Department.

Of the 10,958 criminal prosecutions pending July 1, 1897, 88 were for violation of customs laws, 5,426 for violation of internal-revenue laws, 870 for violation of post-office laws, 11 for violation of election laws, 8 under naturalization laws, 279 under the intercourse laws, 234 under pension laws, 108 for embezzlement, and 3,934 miscellaneous prosecutions.

Exhibit C shows the amount arising and realized from civil suits to which the United States was a party and from criminal prosecutions in the circuit and district courts of the United States during the last fiscal year.

The aggregate amount of the judgments rendered in favor of the United States in civil suits during the last year was $314,573.71, and the amount actually collected on these judgments was $43,219.32, while $22,447.96 was obtained during the year on judgments rendered in former years for the United States, and $46,252.12 was otherwise realized in civil suits.

The aggregate amount of fines, forfeitures, and penalties imposed during the year in criminal prosecutions was $659,849.20, and the amount of these fines, forfeitures, and penalties collected during the year was $92,568.22, while $8,807.75 was realized on fines, forfeitures, and penalties imposed in former years.

Exhibit D is a statement of civil suits to which the United States was not a party, commenced and terminated in the circuit and district courts of the United States during the last fiscal year; and of such suits pending July 1, 1897, 10,255 were commenced during the year, of which 1,897 were cases in admiralty and 8,358 were other miscellaneous suits.

Judgments for plaintiffs in these cases were as follows: 832 in admiralty, amounting to $857,855.26, and 2,976 in other suits, amounting to $313,389,812.71.

Judgments for defendants were 111 in admiralty, amounting to $9,083.04, and 808 in other suits, amounting to $712,235.18; 882 in admiralty were either dismissed or discontinued, as were also 4,103 other suits; 46,453 civil suits to which the United States was not a party were pending in the circuit and district courts of the United States July 1, 1897, viz, 4,604 in admiralty, and other miscellaneous suits, 41,849.

Exhibit E is a general statement of all appropriations placed under the Department of Justice which were available and those from which payments were made during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897.

Exhibit F1 is a statement of the court expenses incurred in the fiscal year 1894 and paid in the fiscal year 1897.

Exhibit F2 is a statement of court expenses incurred in the fiscal year 1895 and paid in the fiscal year 1897.

Exhibit F3 is a statement of court expenses incurred and paid in the fiscal year 1897, viz:

To United States marshals.....	$1, 163, 252. 53
To attorneys.....	300, 187. 61

Exhibit F 4 is a statement showing items, amounts, cause of expenditure, and persons paid from the appropriation for contingent expenses, Department of Justice, including the appropriation for furniture and repairs, books for Department library, books for office of the Solicitor, stationery, official transportation, and miscellaneous items.

Exhibit G is a statement of payments during the fiscal year 1897 to supervisors at Congressional elections.

Exhibit H shows the number of special assistant attorneys, and the compensation paid to each, as required by sections 195 and 385, Revised Statutes.

Exhibit I is the report of the Solicitor of the Treasury, showing the amount, character, and results of the litigation under his direction for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897.

Exhibit J is the report of the librarian of the Department.

Exhibit K is a detailed statement, giving names of the institutions where United States prisoners are confined, their location, and the number of convicts in each.

Exhibit L is the report of the warden of the United States penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth.

Exhibit M is the annual report of the president of the board of trustees of the Reform School for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897.

Exhibit N is the report of the president of the board of trustees of the Girls' Reform School of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897.

Exhibit O is the annual report of the warden of the United States jail in the District of Columbia.

Exhibit P is a report of the Architect of the Capitol upon the improvements and repairs to the court-house, District of Columbia, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897.

Exhibit Q is a report of the attorney in charge of pardons, Department of Justice, showing the names of the prisoners convicted in the United States courts who were pardoned during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, the districts in which they were tried, the term of court at which they were convicted, their offenses, sentences, dates of pardon, and the principal reasons for recommending Executive clemency.

Exhibit R is a report of the special attorney in charge of matters relating to the Mission Indians.

Exhibit S is a statement showing by districts the annual salaries of United States district attorneys, their assistants and clerks, and the expenses claimed and approved by this Department for the fiscal year 1897.

Exhibit T is a statement showing by districts the salaries paid to United States marshals, their deputies and clerks, their expenses of travel and subsistence, as claimed and as approved, and the fees earned and compensation payable out of said fees, as claimed and as approved, together with amounts paid to clerks of United States courts for deposit, for the fiscal year 1897.

Exhibit U is a statement showing emoluments and office expenses of clerks of United States courts, as indicated by their emolument returns, for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1897.

The exhibits are a part of the report.

EXHIBITS.

There were disposed of during the year 515 cases, claiming about $2,671,554.64. In 62 of them, claiming upward of $440,279.37, judgments of dismissal were secured. In 453 cases, claiming $2,231,275.27, judgments were for claimants in the sum of $761,697.65.

In addition to the above, judgment was rendered in favor of the claimant for $31,014.97, on mandate of the Supreme Court, in an Indian case (brought under certain treaty provisions), claiming $246,411.74. This judgment has, however, been set aside and a new trial granted to the United States.

The above number (515) of cases, however, includes 348 cases which embody judgments upon the claims of 3,318 individual letter carriers, so that in this jurisdiction the actual number of individual claims passed upon and disposed of by the court is 3,485 instead of 515.

FRENCH SPOILIATIONS.

Since the last report nothing requiring special mention has been done in these cases. Many cases have long since been tried and submitted to the Court of Claims, and many others are ready for trial on the part of the United States, awaiting action by claimants and the court.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

These suits were brought under the acts of June 16, 1880, and February 13, 1895. At the date of my last report there remained pending 71 of these cases, in 2 of which judgments have since been rendered for the claimants, aggregating $1,249.65, exclusive of interest, each of which is now pending on a motion for a new trial made by the defendants, and in 17 cases the petitions were dismissed. Many of these cases had been wholly or partially prepared for trial on the part of the defendants when they were disposed of by the act of March 3, 1897, repealing the act of February 13, 1895, and providing that all proceedings pending in these cases should be vacated and that no judgments theretofore rendered, in pursuance of said act of February 13, 1895, should be paid. There are left, however, 14 of these cases, brought under the act of June 16, 1880, in which the claimants are still pressing for recoveries.

Prior to the act of March 3, 1897, 4 test cases of those mentioned in my last report, where judgments had been rendered for claimants, were decided on appeal by the Supreme Court of the United States, and the judgments reversed as regards the sum found due for interest, which amounted in each case to about 75 per cent of the principal. (District of Columbia v. Johnson, 165 U. S., 330.) But meanwhile 12 judgments, obtained under the act of February 13, 1895, had been paid at the Treasury Department, the amount of interest in the same aggregating $27,196.81. As this interest money was erroneously adjudged, upon the authority of 165 U. S., 330, above referred to, and the time for appeal had expired, motions for new trials were made in these cases, based upon section 1088 of the Revised Statutes. These motions are now pending.

CONGRESSIONAL CASES.

Under the acts of March 3, 1883, c. 116 (1 Supp. R. S., 403), and March 3, 1887, c. 359 (1 Supp. R. S., 559), authorizing the reference to the Court of Claims of certain claims, pending before Congress or any of its committees, or an executive department, for an advisory finding of facts, there have been transmitted to the court since the last report 106 cases, claiming upward of $2,211,181.25.

The total number of cases so transmitted to date is 9,601, of which there are now pending 6,797 cases.

CASES DISPOSED OF.

During the year, 365 cases, claiming $1,192,537.31, were acted on by the court and have been or will be reported to Congress. Of this number, 260 cases, claiming $864,259.17, were dismissed, because claimants or those they represented were disloyal, and for other causes. In 7 cases, claiming $47,058.18, findings favorable to the United States on the merits were filed by the court, and in 98 cases, claiming $281,219.96, findings favorable to the claimants were filed for $143,891.20.

DEPARTMENTAL CASES.

Under the act of March 3, 1883, c. 116 (1 Supp. R. S., 403), there have been referred from the Executive Departments to date 52 cases, 2 of them having been referred during the past year. In these cases the court is asked to pass upon certain disputed questions of law and fact. There are now pending 14 cases.

SUITS PENDING AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT IN THE CIRCUIT AND DISTRICT COURTS OF THE UNITED STATES.

The suits in this jurisdiction are brought under the provisions of the act of March 3, 1887, entitled "An act to provide for the bringing of suits against the Government of the United States." (1 Supp. R. S., 559).

During the year ending October 31, 1897, 47 suits were brought in the various circuit and district courts throughout the United States, and, with the exception of one suit, in which no sum was specified, the amount claimed therein is $109,655.66. The matters in controversy in these various suits may be tabulated as follows:

Fees as United States marshal.....	3
Fees as United States attorney.....	4
Fees as clerk.....	4
Fees as United States commissioner.....	1
Services as deputy marshals.....	4
For overtime as letter carriers.....	19
Injury to riparian rights.....	6
Miscellaneous matters.....	6

In the circuit and district courts 25 suits went to judgment during the year, of which 6 were dismissed and 19 were decided in favor of the claimants. In the circuit court of appeals 13 suits were decided, of which the judgments of the lower court in 3 were affirmed and in 7 reversed, in whole or in part, of the cases appealed by the United States; of those appealed by claimants 1 was affirmed and 2 were reversed. In the Supreme Court of the United States 3 cases on appeal were decided, of which 1 was dismissed upon motion of the United States.

Since the creation of this jurisdiction 1,278 suits have been brought against the Government, of which there are pending in the circuit and district courts 139 suits, in the various circuit courts of appeals 14 suits, of which 2 were taken up by the claimants, and in the Supreme Court of the United States 4 suits, of which 1 was certified by the circuit court of appeals.

APPEALS IN SUPREME COURT.

Since my last report 26 cases of appeals to the Supreme Court from the Court of Claims, 1 being a cross-appeal and 3 from circuit courts of appeals, have been decided. Of these 15 were favorable to the United States, 10 were unfavorable, and 4 were dismissed, either by the court or upon stipulation.

Of the 15 cases decided favorably to the United States 7 were upon the Government's appeal, and resulted in setting aside so many adverse judgments heretofore reported.

There are now pending in the Supreme Court 26 appeals from the Court of Claims in United States cases and 4 from the circuit courts of appeals, being cases originally brought in the circuit courts of the United States under the concurrent jurisdiction, of which 20 are appeals by the Government and 10 by the claimants.

CLASSES SPECIALLY MENTIONED.

In accordance with the custom of previous years, I call attention to certain classes of cases which invite special consideration, either by reason of their present or threatened magnitude or number or by reason of the importance of the questions involved.

LETTER-CARRIER CASES.

These suits are brought to recover compensation for time worked in excess of eight hours per day, under the act of May 24, 1888 (1 Supp. R. S., 587). It is difficult to correctly approximate the number of suits brought under this act, but they probably number in the neighborhood of 17,000 individual claims. While at the time of the report of my predecessor it was anticipated that the examination of the territory would be substantially covered before the date of this report, the filing of supplemental claims covering a period subsequent to April 30, 1893, the date to which most of the original petitions ran, has greatly augmented the labor of this Department and, in consequence, has considerably delayed the clearing of these cases from the dockets.

The method heretofore adopted for the settlement of these claims has been followed by me. In accordance with such custom, examinations have been made upon the claims from 203 cities, and judgments have been entered in 3,318 individual suits for the sum of $612,616.62, the amount claimed in the petitions being $1,577,731.92. In addition to the foregoing suits, reports have been made upon 1,516 individual claims, which have not as yet been submitted to the court for judgment.

REBATE OF TAX ON ALCOHOL USED IN THE ARTS, ETC.

These suits are brought under section 61 of the tariff act of 1894, providing that manufacturers using alcohol in the arts or in any medicinal or like compound, under regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, should, on furnishing certain proof, receive a rebate or repayment of the internal-revenue tax paid on such alcohol. Of this class of cases there are now pending 1,154, the amount involved in which is about $4,100,000.

A test case to determine the question of liability of the Government in this class of cases was submitted to the court in June last, after careful argument, but as yet no decision has been rendered.

SUITS FOR DEFICIT IN SUGAR-BOUNTY APPROPRIATION.

The act of June 4, 1897, making appropriation of $1,085,156.66 for the purpose of paying producers of sugar the balance of claims due them under the terms of the act approved March 2, 1895, which provided for the payment of eight-tenths of a cent per pound on sugar actually manufactured and produced in the United States, has relieved the court from a mass of impending litigation, which was specially referred to in the report of my predecessor, and was evidenced by the suits already brought, but which have since been dismissed.

DIFFERENCES IN PAY OF EMPLOYEES AT FIRST-CLASS POST-OFFICES.

There are at present pending in court some 40 cases in which an effort is being made by certain postal employees to secure the difference of pay between the amount actually received by them and that to which they claim to be entitled as employees of first-class offices under the act of March 2, 1889, c. 374, par. 1 (1 Supp. R. S., 680). While the amount involved in the individual cases is not large, it is difficult with the present information to estimate the volume of litigation likely to arise.

LA ABRA AND WEIL CASES.

The case of the United States v. La Abra Silver Mining Company has been argued twice in the Court of Claims on final hearing, by able counsel on behalf of the United States, it being reargued in consequence of the death of the late chief justice.

On June 24, 1897, a decree was entered in the cause adjudging that the entire award was obtained by fraud and perjury, and that the company and those claiming under it were barred and foreclosed as to all claim to the money received from Mexico on account of said award.

From this decree an appeal has been taken by respondents to the Supreme Court of the United States, and an earnest effort will be made to have the same heard at the present term of court.

The case of the United States v. Alice Weil and others, has been strengthened by a number of depositions taken since the last report of the Attorney-General, and will be brought on for hearing as soon as practicable.

GENERAL REMARKS.

I fully concur in the recommendation that has heretofore frequently been made, to the effect that the jurisdiction of the circuit and district courts over suits against the Government under the act of March 3, 1887 (1 Supp. R. S., 559), be abolished. Under the existing conditions, different decisions upon identically the same questions are being rendered in different courts, and uniformity can only be obtained through a final review by the Supreme Court of the United States. At present all judgments of the Court of Claims can be taken to the Supreme Court by the Government, irrespective of the amount involved, while since the passage of the act creating the circuit courts of appeals, judgments of the circuit and district courts, which are reviewed in the circuit courts of appeals, can only be taken to the Supreme Court where the amount in controversy exceeds $1,000. Because of this condition of the legislation, claimants seeking to defeat the Government of this right of review by the Supreme Court can and have split up their claims, making the amount involved in individual suits less than $1,000. A repeal of this jurisdiction of the circuit and district courts over suits against the United States would in no wise affect the Court of Claims as a forum before which redress may still be had.

In conclusion, I strenuously recommend an equalization of the salaries of the assistant attorneys. At present two of them receive $3,000, three $2,500, and one $2,000 per annum, while the character and magnitude of the duties of all are absolutely similar. They are all supposed to be lawyers of merit and standing, and while we are usually fortunate in securing men of ability at the lower salaries, the inadequacy of the compensation affords but little attraction to the trained lawyer of ability and standing. As was well said by my predecessor, these assistant attorneys "are not law clerks, but must be trial lawyers, qualified to prepare and try cases, yielding neither in difficulty nor magnitude to the most important arising in private practice. They must be, and continually are, pitted against the first lawyers in the country, who often receive in a single case fees far in excess, in some instances tenfold, the annual salary paid the Government's defender." Their salaries should be equalized and made uniformly at least $4,000 per annum. Their services are in every respect as valuable as, and in many instances are of greater consequence to the Government than those of the United States district attorneys, whose salaries are much larger.

Very respectfully,

LOUIS A. PRADT,
Assistant Attorney-General.

EXHIBIT 3.—Report of the Assistant Attorney-General in charge of Indian depredation claims.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, D. C., November 1, 1897.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
Washington, D. C.

SIR: I herewith submit for your consideration my first annual report of the business of the Department relating to the defense of Indian depredation cases in the Court of Claims.

The progress of the work since the last annual report was made by my predecessor is shown comparatively by the following exhibit:

Total number of cases filed	10, 841
Amount claimed	$43, 515, 867. 06
Cases reduced to judgment	1, 241
Amount claimed	$5, 430, 883. 23
Judgments in favor of claimants	681
Amount claimed	$2, 578, 281. 11
Amount of judgments in favor of claimants	$1, 374, 710. 71

Judgments in favor of defendants	560
Amount claimed	$2, 852, 602. 12
Judgments for claimants from November 5, 1896, to November 1, 1897	91
Amount claimed	$255, 855. 98
Amount of judgments for claimants	$133, 148. 31
Judgments for defendants from November 5, 1896, to November 1, 1897	65
Amount claimed	$441, 339. 92
Cases in which depositions have been taken (reported) from November 5, 1896, to November 1, 1897	370
Of these 43 were for the defendants and 227 for the claimants.

Since the last annual report four cases have been passed upon by the Supreme Court, the decision of the Court of Claims being affirmed in each instance. Three of these cases were decided during the October term of 1896, prior to the time when I assumed charge of the work. Two of these were decided in favor of the claimants, and one in favor of the Government and the Indians. Of those decided adversely to the defendants, one (United States v. Gorham, 165 U. S., 316) involved an important question, the court holding that where it is not possible to identify the Indians alleged to have committed the depredation as belonging to any particular tribe, recovery may be had against the United States alone. In the other (United States v. The Northwestern Express Stage and Transportation Company, 164 U. S., 686) the question involved was whether an incorporated company was a "citizen of the United States" within the meaning of the act of March 3, 1891. The adverse decision of the court in this case will not affect many other cases. The case of Stoner v. The United States (164 U. S., 380) turned on the holding of the Court of Claims that in a case where the claimant was chargeable with great laches the court would not find in his favor on slight evidence, even where there was no testimony in rebuttal, the evidence offered by the claimant not being sufficient to overcome the presumptions of fact arising out of a delay of twenty or thirty years in presenting this claim. The Supreme Court held that the Court of Claims is the sole judge of the sufficiency of the evidence in view of all the circumstances of the case, and affirmed the decision. The fourth case, and the only one heard and decided by the Supreme Court during my incumbency, was that of Valk v. The United States, in which the court, affirming the decision of the Court of Claims, reaffirmed its former holding on the question of amity in the cases of Marks v. The United States (161 U. S., 297), and Leighton v. The United States (161 U. S., 291).

The most important case now pending on appeal is that of Kemp v. The United States et al., which involves the question whether the Indian tribe, primarily, and secondarily the United States, can be held responsible for a depredation committed by members of a tribe with whom a treaty existed providing for the surrender of such offenders on demand of the United States, in a case where no such demand was ever made, and no opportunity offered to the tribe to deliver up the wrongdoer. This question is involved in some 4,000 cases now pending, and in probably 2,000 where no other general defense is available. In consequence of the importance of the question to both claimants and defendants, a motion has been made for its advancement on the docket of the Supreme Court, and it is thought that an early hearing and decision will be obtained.

I assumed charge of this work in June of the present year, just at the beginning of the long vacation of the court. Since that time it has, of course, been impracticable to secure actual results in decisions by the court, which has just reconvened for the fall session. Many cases, however, have been prepared for trial by my assistants, and testimony has been taken in many other cases not yet ready for trial. Substantial progress has been made, also, in the preparation of appealed cases for trial in the Supreme Court.

There are now pending, as shown by the table given above, 9,600 cases, involving the amount of $38,084,983.83. These cases range, as to their date of origin, from 1812 to 1891, and, as to the amount claimed, from a few dollars up to more than one and one-quarter millions. As stated by my predecessor in his last annual report, quoting from an opinion by the Court of Claims, the statutes conferring jurisdiction in these cases and authorizing action "without previous notification of any kind to put the defendants upon inquiry are without precedent in the history of jurisprudence, and the statutory provisions are complex, and unite as many different and diverse and conflicting interests and questions in one suit as were probably ever brought together in action at law." (Duran v. The United States et al., 30 C. Cls. R., 353.)

In spite of the difficulties confronting the defendants and the court at the outset, substantial progress has been made in securing interpretations of the controverted points of the law. New questions are constantly arising, but with the clearing away of the main questions of construction, each of which is applicable to many cases—a process which probably will be practically completed within the present year by the decisions of the Supreme Court in the cases there pending—counsel for the defendants, as well as the court, will be enabled to give greater time and attention to the consideration of the merits of individual cases not affected by any jurisdictional questions, and it may be expected that judgments will be rendered in favor of the claimants in many worthy cases, amounting in the aggregate to much more than the total for any one of the preceding four years.

The large number of cases pending, and the comparative smallness of the force engaged in defending them, has caused, and necessarily will cause, congestion and delay, both in the hearing of cases in the court and in the taking of testimony. An earnest effort will be made, however, to reduce such necessary delays to a minimum, and, while conserving all the interests of the Government and strenuously insisting on every available defense, as well as exercising all possible care to defeat fraudulent claims, to advance the worthy claims to the final settlement which they merit and have awaited so long.

Respectfully,

JOHN G. THOMPSON,
Assistant Attorney-General.

EXHIBIT 4.—Report of the United States attorney for the Court of Private Land Claims.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 13, 1897.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
Washington, D. C.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following report as to the business transacted by the Court of Private Land Claims from September 5, 1896, the date of my last report, to October 5, 1897:

During the period just mentioned very considerable progress has been made in disposing of the cases yet remaining on the docket. The continued failure of claimants to comply with the order of court requiring them to bring in as codefendants all adverse claimants has resulted in some delay in the trial of certain cases, but despite this fact three very busy terms of court have been held, at which a number of the most important cases on the docket have been disposed of. A fact which has tended greatly to facilitate the disposition of the business of the court has been the decision by the Supreme Court of certain cases appealed from this court. The decision of the Supreme Court in the cases of United States v. Sandoval (167 U. S., 278) and Rio Arriba Land and Cattle Company v. United States (167 U. S., 298), in which it is held that as to all the unallotted lands within the exterior boundaries, where towns or communities were sought to be formed, the title remained in the Government for such disposition as it might see proper to make, and that this court has no power to confirm to claimants such unallotted lands, is decisive of a number of cases still pending in the Court of Private Land Claims, and the application of the doctrine thus announced will save to the public domain hundreds of thousands of acres. It is believed that the decision by the Supreme Court of other cases appealed from this court and now under advisement, or which will be submitted to the Supreme Court during the present term of that court, will still further reduce the issues between claimants and the Government in this court and will pave the way to a more speedy determination of the cases remaining for adjudication.

I beg to attach hereto, marked respectively statements 1, 2, 3, and 4, schedules showing in detail the work done by the court during the period above mentioned.

From statement 1, it will be noticed that there have been disposed of in the New Mexico district 57 cases, involving 47 different grants. The total area claimed in these cases was 2,612,355 acres. Of this amount there have been confirmations to the extent of 177,861 acres, and claims of an area of 2,434,494 acres have been rejected.

In addition to the cases tried, a number of surveys, made under decrees of confirmation heretofore entered by the court, have been returned to this court for its approval. A careful investigation into the correctness of these surveys has been made in each instance by this office, and in some instances the consideration and investigation by the court of objections to such surveys, filed by the Government, have consumed a much longer time than did the trial of the original case. This will indicate the importance of this branch of the work of the court and of this office. It is very obvious that the work of the Government on the trial of the case, in securing a decree limiting the claimants to the proper boundaries, may be rendered entirely nugatory by the erroneous location by the surveyor of the boundary calls of the decree. The consideration of yourself and your predecessors has placed at my command the assistance necessary to check any attempt to evade or to neglect the requirements of the decree in making the survey, and it shall be my purpose in the future, as heretofore, to hold surveys rigidly to the limitations imposed by the decrees. In this connection I desire to commend the faithful service of Mr. Sherrard Coleman, special agent of the Department of Justice assigned to my office and an experienced surveyor of ability, to whom these matters have been intrusted.

As will be seen from statements 2 and 3, twelve surveys have been passed upon by the court during the period covered by this report. Seven of this number, aggregating an area of 157,331 acres, have on investigation been found correct and approved by the court. In the remaining five the objections filed by the Government have been sustained and resurveys ordered. As shown by statement 4, there are four other surveys which have been returned to this court by the General Land Office under section 10 of the act establishing the court. A large number of surveys are now being made by the surveyor-general of New Mexico under decrees rendered by this court, which will demand the attention of the court and this office in the near future.

At the term ending October 5, 1897, the court decided all cases heretofore submitted, except two, which are shown by statement 5. The first of these cases is held under advisement to enable claimants to supply at the next term certain archive evidence from the city of Mexico. The second is similarly held on claimant's application to await the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Crespin et al. v. United States, San Antonito grant, No. 6 on the docket of that court, which was argued and submitted on the 12th instant.

No session of the Court of Private Land Claims has been held in Arizona since my last report, and therefore no Arizona cases are included in this report as having been tried. The cases remaining for trial on the Arizona docket are all controlled by cases now on appeal from this court to the Supreme Court of the United States, and for this reason it has been deemed proper to delay the trial of such Arizona cases until the Supreme Court has decided the appealed cases, decisions in which are anticipated during its present term.

Notwithstanding the amount of business disposed of during the last year there still remain many important cases for determination by the court. Parties at interest continue to avail themselves of the provisions of section 8 of the act creating the court, which has been construed by it to permit the filing of claims for perfect and complete grants at any time during the existence of the court. Since my last report there has been one such claim filed in the Santa Fe district, No. 276, for the confirmation of the Maragua grant, and one in the Arizona district, No. 10, for the confirmation of the San Pedro grant.

Statement 6, hereto attached, shows that there are 85 cases in which is prayed the confirmation of 75 grants remaining untried in the Santa Fe district. The area claimed in 47 of these 75 grants is 9,353,316 acres. In the remaining 28 grants this office has no data from which to estimate the area claimed, but it is safe to say that the total area claimed in the cases yet for trial in the Santa Fe district is in excess of 10,000,000 acres.

Statement 7, hereto attached, shows that there are 7 cases in which is prayed the confirmation of 7 grants yet remaining untried in the Arizona district. The total area claimed in these 7 Arizona cases is 319,657 acres.

The total number of cases, therefore, yet remaining for trial by the Court of Private Land Claims is 92. In these cases there are 82 grants claimed. The total area claimed in 54 of these grants is 9,672,973 acres. The data at hand does not justify a statement as to the area of the remaining 28 grants.

The court has set its next term for January 25, 1898, at Santa Fe. Every effort, consistent with the interests of the Government, will be made by this office to facilitate and hasten a final disposition of the business now pending before the court.

Without the efficient aid of Mr. William H. Pope, my assistant, and Mr. Will. M. Tipton, and Mr. Henry O. Flipper, special agents and experts, the results herein set forth could not have been obtained, and I desire to especially commend them, as well as the other employees of my office.

Thanking you for the manner in which I have been sustained in the past in the performance of my official duties, and trusting that I shall in the future merit the confidence which you have so kindly evidenced heretofore,

I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

MATT. G. REYNOLDS,

United States Attorney for the Court of Private Land Claims.

REPORT OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

GENERAL

1. The first part of the report is a general description of the project and its objectives. This is followed by a detailed description of the methodology used in the study. The results of the study are then presented in a series of tables and figures. Finally, the conclusions of the study are discussed.

2. The second part of the report is a detailed description of the methodology used in the study. This includes a description of the data collection methods, the statistical methods used to analyze the data, and the software used to perform the calculations.

3. The third part of the report is a series of tables and figures that present the results of the study. These include a table of the mean values for each variable, a table of the standard deviations, and a series of graphs showing the distribution of the data.

4. The fourth part of the report is a discussion of the conclusions of the study. This includes a summary of the findings, a discussion of the limitations of the study, and suggestions for further research.

EXHIBIT I.—Report of the Solicitor of the Treasury.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR OF THE TREASURY,
Washington, D. C., November 8, 1897.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith seven tabular statements exhibiting the amount, character, and results of the litigation under my direction for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, shown by the docket entries of this office.

The tables embrace respectively:

1. Suits on transcripts of accounts of defaulting public officers, excepting those of the Post-Office Department, adjusted by the accounting officers of the Treasury Department.

2. Post-office suits, embracing those against officers of the Post-Office Department, and cases of fines, penalties, and forfeitures for violation of postal laws.

3. Suits on custom-house bonds.

4. Suits for recovery of fines, penalties, and forfeitures under the customs revenue and navigation laws.

5. Suits against collectors of customs and other officers or agents of the Government, excepting internal-revenue officers, for refund of duties and acts done in the line of their official duty, including appeals from the decisions of the Board of General Appraisers.

6. Suits in which the United States is a party or is interested and not embraced in the other classes.

7. A general summary or abstract of all the other tables.

An examination of the tables will show that the whole number of suits commenced within the year was 3,456, of which 10 were of class 1, for the recovery of $17,732.94; 481 were of class 2, for the recovery of $57,086.01; 44 were of class 3, for the recovery of $14,452.96; 117 were of class 4, for the recovery of $91,769.60; 212 were of class 5; and 2,592 were of class 6, for the recovery of $51,569,336.91.

Of the whole number of suits brought, 1,798 were decided in favor of the United States, 59 were adversely decided, 460 were settled and dismissed, leaving 1,139 still pending.

Of those pending at the commencement of the year, 1,009 were decided for the United States, 233 were adversely decided, and 1,012 were settled and dismissed.

The whole number of suits decided or otherwise disposed of during the year was 4,571; the whole amount for which judgments were obtained, exclusive of decrees in rem, was $548,388.70, and the entire amount collected from all sources was $252,092.74.

The number of cases in which offers of compromise were pending and received during the fiscal year was 155, involving the sum of $516,095.36.

Because of the meagerness of the appropriation of recent years, there should be at least $2,000 appropriated by the next Congress for the library of this office, and I earnestly urge that it be done.

The two, fourth-class clerks who keep the principal dockets in this office, and write very important letters in relation to the suits brought by the Government, and keep advised as to every step taken in said suits, are not adequately paid. Men of ordinary ability can not do the work required of these two clerks. Their salaries should be at least $2,000 per annum, which increase I earnestly urge.

The fourth-class clerk performing the duties of law clerk should also receive $2,000 per annum. The position is important and should always be filled by a well read lawyer.

Very respectfully,

MAURICE D. O'CONNELL,
Solicitor.

HON. JOSEPH MCKENNA,
Attorney-General of the United States.

EXHIBIT J.—Report of the librarian.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, D. C., September 29, 1897.

SIR: I respectfully submit the following report upon the library of the Department of Justice for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897:

The work of cleaning the library, dusting the books, and washing shelves is well under way, greatly to the satisfaction and comfort of those who have occasion to use the library.

The numbering of the Congressional documents which was begun last year has been completed. This was an arduous task, but the result has abundantly repaid the effort. The books are now easily located, and are much more frequently in use than formerly.

At odd times I am engaged in the preparation of a catalogue, which I desire to be complete and accurate in every particular and to serve as the basis for all future catalogues of the Department. The book will contain but two parts, arranged alphabetically, one of authors, etc., and the other of subjects, with possibly an appendix of the Congressional documents. The numbering of these books, as above mentioned, will enable me to add a valuable feature to the work. The time I am able to devote to the preparation of this book is very limited. Months elapse during which the work can not be touched. Then, perhaps, I will have a few hours a day for a short time, always subject to interruption, and then the lapse of a month or more before I can take it up again.

You will at once realize that the task is not a small one, and that interruptions are dangerous to accuracy; also that at the present rate the work can not be completed for several years. If I had an assistant, or a careful, intelligent messenger, to assist in the regular routine work of the library, I think the catalogue could be completed in about one year and a half.

It is impossible properly to report on the condition of the library without again calling attention to the fact that the space allowed for the library on the fourth floor is entirely inadequate. Even in the cellar no more space is available. But one thing remains to be done, and that is to place the books in boxes or bags and store them away. Already I have begun to do this, exercising my best judgment in selecting books which will be least likely to be needed. This can not continue indefinitely if the library is to be at all efficient. I sincerely hope that the vigorous efforts of last year, which were so nearly successful, to have the library placed on the first floor in the rooms now occupied by the Court of Claims, will be followed by a still more determined and a successful effort this year.

But while this change will benefit the library, and as librarian I shall welcome it, yet I beg also to suggest that the plan will afford but temporary relief for the rest of the Department. Every available space in the library is now occupied by an attorney. If the library were moved, the attorneys would still, perhaps, occupy the same rooms, and little additional space be gained. It would seem to be a proper time to consider the question of a new building, suitable for the accommodation of this Department and of the Court of Claims.

The deficiency this year for the purchase of law books is $187.05. In former reports I have represented as clearly as I know how that at least $2,000 are required yearly to keep this library in fair working order. The result of appropriating $1,500 for this purpose is that current text-books and desirable legal periodicals can not be bought, and, as our continuations amount to over $1,400 yearly, a deficiency necessarily follows. An effort was made last year (Annual Report of the Attorney-General, 1896, p. xii) to secure a special appropriation of $5,000 for purchasing needed law books to bring this library to a fair degree of efficiency. I suggest that another effort be made in this direction; that the regular appropriation for law books be increased to $2,000, and that, as usual, $750 be appropriated for session laws and codes.

Very respectfully,

JAMES A. FINCH, Librarian.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

EXHIBIT L.—*Report of the warden of the United States penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth.WARDEN'S OFFICE,
UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY,
Fort Leavenworth, Kans., June 30, 1897.

SIR: I have the honor to present herewith the second annual report of this penitentiary, fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, and to call attention to the subjoined reports of the chaplain, surgeon, clerk, and bookkeeper.

PRISON POPULATION.

In prison, close of last fiscal year.....	525
Received by commitment during year	254
Recaptured during year.....	5
Total	784
Discharged by expiration of sentence.....	255
Pardoned by the President	13
Escaped	10
Died.....	3
Transferred to other prisons.....	1
Transferred to National Insane Asylum.....	1
Total	283
In prison, June 30, 1897.....	501

The average population for the year was 491. It should have been not less than 525. The first half of the year the population was large. It began falling off in January and remained from 50 to 70 short to the end of the year, as will be seen by reference to the bookkeeper's report herein.

ESCAPES.

There were ten escapes during the year. All of these were paroles or "trusties." The labor of the prison being almost altogether outside of the walls and necessitating a large amount of teaming, it is necessary to have a number of "trusty" convicts. They are men who have made a good prison record, and who are within a few months of the time of their discharge. They sign a parol agreement, and after this they are but little guarded and many of them not at all.

It is a question of trust, and it is not strange that occasionally a man is found who will break his promise, violate his parole, and run away. Of the ten escapes there were five recaptures, with the probability that all will be recaptured in time.

PENALTY FOR ESCAPES.

Many of the States have enacted penalty statutes against escaped convicts. I believe such a Federal enactment would be a just and wholesome deterrent. I respectfully recommend to the Department some such enactment as the following:

Be it enacted, etc., That whoever, being a convict, confined in any United States penitentiary, escapes therefrom, upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in said United States penitentiary for a term not exceeding double the time for which such escaping convict was originally sentenced, said sentence to commence at the expiration of the original term of imprisonment, etc.

Such a law would destroy the temptation to escape and thus greatly aid the discipline of the penitentiary.

HEALTH.

The health of the prison was remarkably good during the year. There were but three deaths, and one of these was from gunshot wounds inflicted on a convict while trying to escape. This death occurred on the farm, where some thirty convicts were harvesting corn, under guard. The victim organized a revolt and sprang away in range of the guns. He refused to halt and was fired upon with fatal effect.

The prison is kept free from vermin and is as clean as soap and water can make it. The men are bathed, shaved, and their underclothing changed once each week. There is a morning sick call in the prison every day in the year. The hospital is in charge of a competent physician and hospital steward, and is supplied with all the medicines and surgical instruments necessary to conduct it after the most approved methods. It is the combined effect of all these conditions that accounts for the good health of the convicts.

FINANCIAL.

By reference to the clerk's report herein, it will be found that the appropriation for the fiscal year was $131,212; the gross expenditure was $107,592.45; and the amount covered back into the Treasury was $23,619.55.

The value of supplies on hand at the end of the fiscal year was $8,612.03, making the net gross expenditures for the year $98,980.42.

The annual per capita cost was $201.60 and the daily per capita cost was 55 cents.

These costs appear to be excessive, and they are compared with the corresponding costs in most prisons; but they are subject to explanation. In this penitentiary the gross expenditure of money is charged to the one item of maintenance, from which the per capita costs are figured. This includes the wages of all foremen, the supplies for keeping up the shops, the cost of forage and equipment for a stable of 70 mules, the pay of extra guards on account of the weakness of the present penitentiary and the working of convicts 3 miles outside the walls in the construction of a new penitentiary.

Deducting all extraordinary expenses, the actual cost per day of maintaining each convict was about 40 cents.

SUBSISTENCE.

On the one item of subsistence the penitentiary has had fair opportunity to make a showing in comparison with other institutions. Even here 200 to 300 convicts have been fed the noon meal daily in the fields, in the quarries, and wherever they might be laboring outside the prison walls, necessitating a waste of food that would have been saved could the food have been served in the prison dining room.

It cost 11 cents per day per man to feed the convicts during the year. This is slightly higher than last year, owing to the increased cost in some articles of food. At this price the convicts were given an abundance of plain but wholesome food well prepared.

Wheat and corn bread, tea and coffee with sugar, milk, beef by the carcass from 600-pound steers, fresh pork, dry salt pork, bologna sausage, butterine, potatoes, beans, rice, hominy, pease, stewed raisins, and large quantities of vegetables in their season have been served on the tables during the year.

The sick and convalescent were specially cared for in the matter of diet. Milk daily, oatmeal, eggs, toast, soups, etc., were prescribed by the physician in charge and served in the hospital, entirely apart from the regular prison dining room.

LABOR.

The convicts were given steady employment during the year, and performed much labor that was of valuable service to the Government.

A large prison garden was cultivated and the products consumed on the prison tables. Forage for the prison animals was produced in large quantities. On Fort Leavenworth Reservation, which embraces about 8,000 acres, there are several miles of driveways built of crushed stone. During the year the convicts quarried stone, crushed it, and used more than 1,000 tons of it in rebuilding these roads.

On the south line of the reservation, adjoining the north line of the city of Leavenworth and running east and west, the Government, some years ago, set apart a strip of the reservation 100 feet wide and designated it "Metropolitan avenue." Until the past year, no part of the avenue had been constructed or made available.

It runs over a very uneven surface and requires an immense amount of labor to make it into a desirable avenue for public travel. During the year about 2 miles of this avenue were built by the convicts and opened up to the public. The new prison, in process of erection, will front on this avenue.

In all of this labor a large money saving accrues to the Government and this stands as a credit against the expense of maintaining the prison. Taking the cost of maintenance and the credit for convict labor performed and making one an offset against the other, the actual cost to the Government of maintaining the convicts in this prison has not been higher than it is in other prisons where such convicts are kept at so much per day.

THE NEW PENITENTIARY.

The first session of the Fifty-fourth Congress authorized the erection of a new United States penitentiary on Fort Leavenworth Reservation and set apart land for this purpose on the southwest part of the reservation, and adjoining the north line of the city of Leavenworth. The land so set apart, embodying about 1,000 acres, is ideally suited to the purpose.

The second session of the same Congress appropriated money for the construction of this penitentiary and authorized the work to begin.

In accordance with the act, the Attorney General employed William S. James, of St. Louis, Mo., as penitentiary architect and directed him, in consultation with the warden of the present penitentiary, to prepare the plans and plans of the Department of Penitentiaries.

As a representative of the Attorney General, the general agent of the Department considered the architect and the warden, in January last.

Several other United States penitentiaries, situated their architecture and construction, and the general agent, in order to fulfill the purpose of gathering data for the architect, the plans were drawn by the architect and submitted by him to the warden of the Attorney General. The warden and the general agent were given critical examination by the supervising architect of the Treasury, by Members of Congress, and by other government officials. And at the same time criticisms were invited from experienced prison officials throughout the country.

The criticisms were favorable and the plans were approved by the Attorney-General, and copies, officially stamped, were placed on file in his office.

The preliminary work for the erection of the new penitentiary was begun at once, and meanwhile the architect proceeded to prepare the working plans.

The prison when completed will be one of the finest, most secure, and convenient in the United States.

The plans, by the terms of the law, contemplate that most of the work will be done by the convicts in the present prison, under the direction of the warden.

The prison is devised on what is known as the "radial" plan. Four cell houses radiate from a rotunda, with a projection in the center back for inside offices, dining room, kitchen, schoolrooms, library, chapel, etc. Over the rotunda there will be a handsome dome about 150 feet, and the elevation from the avenue to the top of the dome will be about 200 feet.

Upon the front of this structure will be an administration building, 45 by 90 feet, two stories high, with appropriate offices upstairs and down.

Surrounding the rotunda on both the first and second floors are horseshoe corridors 20 feet wide, and to these corridors the cell houses and buildings in the rear center are connected. This is one of the chief features of the prison. Its purpose is to handle the prison with perfect security at night, so that a system of schools in the nine schoolrooms may be maintained or lectures may safely be given in the chapel.

The first-floor plans show that the two dining rooms radiate in harmony with the cell houses. The upper story of one dining room is the chapel, with 1,200 seating capacity on the main floor and 300 in the gallery. The floor will have 5 feet fall from the rear to the front, be seated with folding chairs, and the stage will serve all stage purposes.

Over the other dining room is a series of schoolrooms, with the library adjoining.

Each cell will be 5½ by 9 feet, with 8-foot ceiling, will have a door and window barred front, will be provided with electric light, and with flowing water for all purposes.

The air will be drawn in and forced out by steam fans, and the constant flow of air will fill and empty the cell houses every twenty minutes. In winter the air will be drawn down tall stacks over hot coils, and forced in through hot-air grates. In summer the warm air will be drawn in direct through the windows. All foul air will be forced out through stacks. Perfect cleanliness, light, and ventilation will be assured. The hospital will be large, modern in all its departments, and it and all sub-buildings in the prison yard will be constructed on the lines of modern architecture.

The walls will be 35 feet in height. There will be a foot passage on top, and escape will be well-nigh out of the question.

The location of the new penitentiary overlooks the city of Leavenworth, and perfect drainage and all questions incident thereto are assured.

The responsibility and burden of outlining and directing this work is on the warden, under the advice of the architect. The greater part of the labor will be performed by convicts. For this reason it is estimated that the penitentiary when completed will have cost not to exceed 25 per cent of the usual expense to the Government in the erection of public buildings.

Active work began in March, and at the close of the fiscal year the topography and drainage of the site have been determined; the grades have been established; new quarries for stone have been opened; several thousand tons of stone have been crushed for macadamized foundation, and much other preliminary work incident to such a gigantic undertaking has been done.

With convict labor the work will not be done so rapidly as with paid and skilled labor, but it will be done at a nominal expense, and I am confident that it will be done well. Besides, it will be done by those who otherwise would be idle at public expense.

DISCIPLINE.

I have kept a careful record of all violations of discipline during the year. This record makes an unanswerable argument in favor of a prison so constructed that there may be classification of convicts according to their prison conduct.

During the year there were 784 convicts confined in this penitentiary. There were 160 reports for violations of discipline. Of these reports 108 were made against 40 men, who were reported from two to six times each.

During the year there were 104 commitments to solitary confinement. Of these commitments 64, or more than one-half, were made by 39 men.

These figures disclose the fact that more than 90 per cent of the convicts are obedient to discipline. If the 10 per cent of disturbers could be isolated, not only the discipline of the prison would be greatly benefited, but there would be much greater opportunity for the work of prison reformation. This idea will be amply provided for in the construction of the new penitentiary.

THE GUARDS.

The prison guards, with few exceptions, have performed their trying and important duties faithfully and well. Kindness, patience, and firmness are the ideas I have sought to instill into the prison discipline.

OVERTIME.

The rule in Government employment is to make eight hours a day's work, and to give two weeks' leave of absence each year on pay.

The limited guard and the necessities of the case have precluded this rule in this penitentiary.

Here the guards are divided into the day and night forces, and each division is on continuous duty twelve hours out of twenty-four, with no leave of absence during the year, except the guard furnish a substitute at his own expense.

I respectfully call the attention of the Department to this matter and ask for some legal provision that will grant the necessary and just relief.

IN CONCLUSION.

Another year spent with the class of convicts under my charge only confirms the recommendations made by me to the Department in my first annual report.

The new penitentiary, when completed, should be designated as a Federal reformatory for young men and first offenders.

The convicts now in my charge are nearly all young men. That they are responsive to kind treatment and in many cases to reformation from their evil ways is attested by the manner in which they have responded to the discipline of the prison. The field is an inviting one and holds out great encouragement if the proper opportunities can be brought to bear upon it.

Its success or failure must depend, first, on necessary legislation on the part of Congress; and, secondly, on the wise carrying into effect of this legislation by the Department of Justice.

Once the penitentiary is completed it should be filled with diversified industries, the prime purpose of which should be to teach useful handicrafts. In connection with this work a properly-selected library and a well-organized system of schools should be maintained. With such facilities for handling these young men, I know there is great hope for reformation and useful citizenship for many of them. Here the Federal Government has a splendid opportunity to take the lead and to stand as a model in this line of work.

Calling the attention of the Department to the detailed reports attached hereto, and commending my subordinate officials for the faithful performance of their several duties and their fidelity to me, I beg to acknowledge my great obligation to the Department for the firm and generous manner in which it has upheld my hands in the discharge of this important trust.

Very respectfully,

J. W. FRENCH,

Warden United States Penitentiary.

Hon. JOSEPH McKENNA,

Attorney General, Washington, D. C.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

CHAPLAIN'S OFFICE, UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY,

Fort Leavenworth, Kans., June 30, 1897.

SIR: I have the honor to submit herein my report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897. It contains statements of facts and of work for fifteen months, as, having entered on my work in March, 1896, I did not submit any report of work done by me in that year.

THE AGES OF THE MEN.

I find by a careful investigation, which I personally conducted in March of the present year, the following facts as to the ages of the inmates of this prison:

The average at that time was 28 years; 16 per cent of the men at that date were under 20 years of age; 49 per cent of them were under 25 years of age; and 66 per cent of them were under 30 years of age.

These facts are very encouraging in one aspect of them; they show that the population of this prison are not aged and time-hardened wrongdoers. Their youthfulness should encourage to earnest efforts to reclaim and make good men out of them.

THE OFFENSES OF THE MEN.

The same personal investigation, already referred to, disclosed the following facts as to the crimes committed by the inmates of this prison: Forty-four per cent of our population in March last were sent here for larceny; 8 per cent for counterfeiting; 17 per cent for selling liquor in the Indian country; 9 per cent for robbery; 4 per cent for assault with intent to kill; 2 per cent for forgery; 14 per cent for perjury, and 2 per cent for manslaughter.

Fifty per cent of the men admitted to the chaplain that they were guilty, and 38 per cent of them expressed contrition for their misdoing.

The average time of the men in March last was $2\frac{3}{4}$ years.

OCCUPATIONS AND INTELLECTUAL STATUS OF THE MEN.

At the time of the canvass in March last, 60 per cent of the men were farmers; 6 per cent of them were ranchmen; 14 per cent of them were common laborers; 6 per cent of them were carpenters; 4 per cent of them were cooks; 4 per cent of them were blacksmiths; 2 per cent of them were printers; 2 per cent of them were barbers; 2 per cent of them were miners; 4 per cent of them were engineers, and 8 per cent of them were unclassified. The facts in this paragraph relate to the employment of the men on the outside and not to their employment within the prison.

Ninety per cent of the men in this prison last March could read, and 22 per cent of them claimed to be Christians.

SERVICES.

There have been two services held in the chapel by the chaplain, or by some one in his place, on each Sunday—one in the morning and one in the afternoon. The morning service has, with an occasional exception, been a preaching service; and the afternoon service has been, with occasional exceptions, a lecture and a song service combined. The attendance upon these services—upon all of them—has been wholly voluntary, but it has at the same time been large. The attendance at the morning service has been 85 per cent of the whole population. The attendance upon the afternoon service has been 92 per cent of the whole population.

The conduct and attention of the men at all these services has been admirable—necessity for administering rebuke to anyone only having arisen in one case within the fifteen months covered by this report; and in that case the offense was not at all serious.

OTHER HELPERS.

Rev. John McCall, the parish priest of the Roman Catholic Church at Fort Leavenworth, has held one early morning service each month in the prison chapel, to which all prisoners have had access, and which the men were encouraged to attend. These services have not only been valuable to the men of the Catholic faith, but they have been helpful to all of those who have attended them. Father McCall has been most untiring and attentively tender in his ministries to the sick in the prison hospital.

The warden of the prison has from time to time addressed the men in the chapel upon subjects relating mainly to prison discipline and management, and his efforts have been constantly and cheerfully given to sustain and assist the chaplain in his duties. The deputy warden has also frequently spoken to the men in the chapel, and has thus and in other ways given valuable aid to the work. Other men have occasionally preached and lectured in the prison, to the delight and edification of all.

Mr. F. M. Richardson, of Leavenworth, Kans., has put the prison under lasting obligations to him by teaching the men to sing, and by leading the singing in the chapel at both the services on Sunday. Mr. Richardson did this work for several months as a gratuitous contribution to the work of teaching the inmates how to enter into and continue in the higher life.

The organist, Miss Edith Campion, a lovely and devout young lady, also of Leavenworth, Kans., has been most faithful and helpful in the religious work of the prison. The salary paid to her for this service has been small—by no means large enough to measure the value of her services.

Many of the prisoners have rendered valuable help to the chaplain in various ways in the prosecution of his work, and the chaplain wishes to record in this report his grateful appreciation of this helpfulness.

THE LIBRARY.

The chaplain is ex officio librarian of the prison. The library consists of a little more than 6,000 well-selected volumes. The number is not exactly known, as the new catalogue is now in press, and until it shall be completed it is not practicable to determine the exact number of books which are unfit for use. A new catalogue has been prepared and is now going through the prison press.

Many of the books in the library are badly worn and should be condemned and replaced by new purchases. It is respectfully recommended that a liberal appropriation for the library be made from year to year. The books are largely used by the men, and few other instrumentalities are more useful in securing the reform of the men than a large and well-used library.

THE SCHOOL.

It was and is the intention of the Department, as at present understood, to run a school for the use of the men in this prison. There is a large and well-appointed schoolroom in the prison, but the prison is so arranged that the men can not be gotten into the schoolroom without being taken first into the yard; and as we can only have school at night, it is considered by the management of the prison to be unsafe to take the men into the yard and to the schoolroom after the guards have been taken from the wall. For these reasons, the school has not yet been organized.

CONCLUSION.

The moral tone of the prison is excellent. The management is enlightened and humane. The men are as well satisfied as it is possible for men in prison to be. The chaplain has little but kindness to remember in connection with his labors in the prison during the last fifteen months.

Very respectfully,

BAYLUS CADE,
Chaplain United States Penitentiary.

The WARDEN.

SURGEON'S REPORT.

SURGEON'S OFFICE, UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY,
Fort Leavenworth, Kans., June 30, 1897.

SIR: I have the honor to make the following sick and sanitary report of this penitentiary for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897:

During the year 7,188 convicts reported on sick call. Of these, 288 were treated in the hospital, 582 were treated for minor ailments in their quarters, and the remaining 6,318 men that reported on sick call were prescribed for, but not relieved from duty.

During the year we had 67 cases of malarial fever, the remittent type being most prevalent. We had 3 cases of typhoid fever. The prevalence of malarial fevers in this prison is no doubt due to the Missouri River water drank by the convicts. This water is very muddy and receives the drainage of a vast country.

In order to reduce the probability of an epidemic of typhoid and remittent fever, I recommend that the Missouri River water drank by the convicts be filtered with pressure filters.

The inmates of the institution are remarkably free from pulmonary consumption. The immunity from this dreadful disease is due to the healthy outdoor exercise indulged in by the convicts, most of them being employed outside of the walls, on the farm, brickyard, or new prison site.

Last spring we had an epidemic of measles, which lasted about two months; 56 convicts had this disease.

During the year 35 convicts were treated for injuries, including fractures, sprains, dislocations, contusions, lacerations, and burns.

List of deaths and causes.

George East, age 30, gunshot wound, July 30, 1896.

J. E. Perkins, age 31, acute inflammation of the brain, November 3, 1896.

Philip Casey, age 67, dropsy, result of organic heart disease, May 31, 1897.

The general health of the prisoners has been good, due to good sanitation, outdoor employment, and to the comfortable clothing and nutritious food provided for them.

Thanking you for your kindness to me, I remain, very respectfully,
 F. M. THOMAS, Prison Surgeon.

The WARDEN.

FINANCIAL.

UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY,
Fort Leavenworth, Kans., June 30, 1897.

SIR: I have the honor to present herewith a brief financial statement of the appropriation and expenditures of the United States Penitentiary, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., fiscal year ending June 30, 1897.

Respectfully,

J. C. RIPLEY, Chief Clerk.

REPORT OF THE ARCHITECT OF THE NEW PENITENTIARY BUILDING.

ST. LOUIS, MO., October 2, 1897.

SIR: In pursuance of the authority contained in your last letter, I beg to report that I have appointed Mr. F. L. Hinds as overseer for the new Federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

He assumed the duties of his position on the 1st of September, and up to this time has given every evidence that he is competent and trustworthy for the work assigned him.

With a view of reporting to you the condition of the work and ascertaining the overseer's efficiency, I made a visit to the reservation on September 24, without previous notice to Mr. Hinds or the warden. Nearly all of the work, preliminary to the construction of the actual buildings and walls, has been completed and the actual work upon the new prison well started and under way.

It must be remembered that the site of the new prison is about 3 miles south of its present location. This necessitated the construction of a road from the fort to the new prison fully 3 miles in length, including a few bridges and some fencing. A road was also built to the hillside where the new quarry is being opened. We first visited the new quarry, and found that the timber had all been cut away from the stockade. A barb-wire stockade had been erected, the necessary roads constructed, the quarry well opened up, the guardhouses completed, as well as the eating house for the convicts, and considerable stone, suitable for various uses, had been quarried and made ready for transportation to the works.

The quality of the stone in the quarry, as far as prospected, is a limestone, suitable for heavy masonry, such as is being used in the foundation work below grade, for the walls inclosing the prison site, as well as foundation walls for buildings. It is hoped that some ledges will be found suitable for cut-stone work of the superstructures.

I noted a marked difference in the efficiency of the convict work, as contrasted with my previous visit; were they not under guard, one would take them for ordinary day laborers. They seem to take up the work in good spirit, and each day accomplish more than the day before. Of course, the day's work is necessarily small, for the reason that before they can begin in the quarry they must march the distance of 3 miles from the old prison, and in the same manner at the end of the day's work they lose an hour in returning. It is an interesting sight to see them on their line of march in charge of the guards.

We next went over to the new prison site, and found the entire trench for the north wall excavated to its full depth, and for a distance of 650 feet in length the trench was filled with its concrete footings. This trench is 6 feet in width and averages 7 feet in depth; it is 800 feet long, with corner towers that are 14 feet square. When Mr. Hinds began with the convicts they were mixing and putting in the trenches at a rate that advanced them 10 feet each day. Before the end of the month, with the same labor, the same work was advancing at the rate of 30 feet per day. The concrete they were mixing is as good as we secure in private work. There was on the ground a sufficient quantity of macadam, sand, and cement to carry forward the work of excavation and concrete footings without interruption.

We afterwards visited the old quarry near the old Fort Sully, where we found a considerable quantity of stone ready for use in the foundations. It is only unfortunate that this stone must be transported such a long distance to be made use of.

Take it altogether, in view of the large amount of preliminary work that had to be done before any actual constructive work could be begun, I was agreeably surprised at the progress that had been made.

During my visit the warden was instructed to procure some derricks, so as to handle the stone in the quarries and at the prison site more expeditiously.

We also surveyed a route for the dummy railway from the new quarry to the prison site. In view of the great quantity of stone to be taken from one point to another, such a railway would be of incalculable value. The physical conditions are such that it would run as a gravity road over 3,000 feet of its length and the remainder would be a short haul. If no engineering difficulties present themselves, when I have laid out the grades I shall advise the warden to construct such a railway.

In conclusion, I might add that the general condition of affairs in connection with this enterprise is encouraging up to the present time, and the prospect for its continuance until the foundations are completed seems promising.

I mail you to-day a series of photographs, showing fairly well the status of the work at the quarry and on the new prison site. You will see from the photograph of the north trench that it is a work of great magnitude.

It is my purpose, from time to time, to forward to the Department similar photographs, expressing the various stages of the work. There are but 450 convicts in the prison at the present time, of whom 250 are engaged in one way or another in connection with the new prison work. There are about 75 in the quarry and 60 in the trenches. The others are engaged in carrying material back and forth, driving teams, hauling the dinners, and otherwise occupied in connection with the new prison work.

I shall at any time be pleased to receive suggestions from the Attorney-General as to any part of the work in conducting this enterprise successfully.

Very respectfully,

W. S. EAMES.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

EXHIBIT M.—Report of the board of trustees of the Reform School of the District of Columbia.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 15, 1897.

SIR: In accordance with law, I have the honor to submit the report of the board of trustees of the Reform School of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year 1897.

At the beginning of the last fiscal year there were in the school 218 boys; there were received during the year 126, a total of 344 as against 328 for the previous year. Seventy-six of those received were committed by the police court and 6 by the supreme court of the District of Columbia; 31 by United States courts outside of the District, and 13 by the president of the board of trustees.

There were discharged during the year 89 by order of the trustees, 22 by expiration of sentence (United States courts), 3 by order of court, and 6 escaped and are still absent, leaving in the school June 30, 1897, 224. There were no deaths during the year, and the general health of the inmates was and is good.

The accompanying table shows the estimates of appropriations for the next fiscal year, ending June 30, 1899, which, under the law, have been submitted to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia for insertion in the act making appropriations for the District. The amount appropriated for salaries for the present fiscal year was $16,242. The amount of the present estimate for salaries is $17,172. Under the laws governing the Reform School, officials and employees, other than those whose salaries are fixed by law, are appointed and their compensation fixed by the board of trustees, subject to the approval of the Attorney-General. The difference between the amount appropriated for the present fiscal year and the amount estimated for the next is due to the fact that Congress failed to appropriate sufficient to pay the salaries as fixed under this law, and that there has been added an estimate for a new employee—a dairyman—at $420. The amount estimated as necessary for the support of inmates is the same as was appropriated for the present fiscal year and has been appropriated for a number of years past. The estimates for the construction of an assembly hall at a cost of $9,750, and for the construction and equipment of a dairy to cost $3,350, including stock and appliances, are the same as those submitted for the present fiscal year, and the same reasons which were given for them then hold good now.

There has been turned into the Treasury to the credit of the United States and the District of Columbia, jointly, the sum of $2,435, derived as follows: From the paper-box factory, $2,050; sales from greenhouses, $98.83; sales of surplus farm products, $38.75, and from miscellaneous sources, $248.01.

In last year's report it was stated that "the board has always been of the opinion that such part of the boys' time as is given to work other than in the schoolroom should be devoted, as far as possible, to receiving instruction in such handicrafts and manual training as would go to make them self-supporting after leaving the school rather than the performance of such labor on the farm or in the shops as would result merely in the production of a small amount of money to be turned into the Government's Treasury without giving them any useful knowledge." Acting upon this idea, the second floor of the bakery building has been equipped with the necessary benches, tools, and appliances for instructing a limited number of boys in the Sloyd system of manual training, the result of which instruction has been so satisfactory as to encourage the board to still further extend it.

The board repeats what was said in the last report, that—

Under the present law governing the Reform School it is provided:

"Sec. 9. That every boy sent to the Reform School shall remain until he is 21 years of age, unless sooner discharged or bound as an apprentice; but no boy shall be retained after the superintendent shall have reported him fully reformed."

Under the system of instruction and of honor badges and promotions adopted by the board, it is possible for a boy to earn his discharge inside of two years, provided he be, so far as the superintendent is able to judge, sufficiently reformed to come within the meaning of the section quoted. When discharged, the board has no further control over him. The board has for years been of the opinion that the discharge from the school should be a limited, not an absolute, one; that Congress should be asked to provide by legislation for such control by the board of trustees of the boys after discharge as will enable it to reclaim and return to the school any boy who, by his bad conduct, shows himself amenable to recommitment. As long ago as the first session of the Fiftieth Congress, in 1888, Congress was asked to legislate in this direction, and a bill was favorably reported in the House at that session, but not passed. The board thinks that Congress should, at its next session, be asked to pass a bill giving the board authority over the boys after discharge, and will be glad to have your approval of the matter and some mention of it in your annual report to Congress.

A great deal has been done during the year in the way of permanent improvements and repairs. The bakehouse, the building of which was reported last year, has been entirely completed and equipped with modern improvements. The entire system of steam heating has been remodeled, and new pipes from the boiler house to the different buildings have been laid in brick trenches, which give protection as well as afford ready access for repair. Many repairs and improvements have been made in the main building, including new concrete floors and steel ceilings in the kitchens, a new auxiliary cooking range, and new water-supply pipes to replace the old ones and to give better service in different parts of the building; schoolrooms, dormitories, and the boys dining room, including the floors, have been painted. Necessary repairs have been made to the barn, boiler house, workshops, greenhouses, etc. A large amount of new fencing has been erected and the old repaired. Some sewers have been enlarged and extended; the roadways have been resurfaced, rolled, and drained. In all of this work the boys have been employed wherever their services could be made available.

The report of the treasurer of the school, submitted as an exhibit to this report, shows in detail the receipts and expenditures during the year. There are also submitted as exhibits the reports of the superintendent and of the attending physician.

The board suggests, in view of the relation which the Department of Justice bears to the Government's system of caring for United States prisoners, and the similar positions to the Department and the District of Columbia occupied by the United States Jail, District of Columbia, and the Reform School, District of Columbia, that in appropriating for the latter the words "all under the direction of the Attorney-General" be substituted for "all under the control of the Commissioners," as was done in the case of the former, the Commissioners having expressed themselves as favorable to this change.

Very respectfully,

CECIL CLAY,

President of the Board of Trustees.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

Another year of fairly prosperous work has been added to our school history. Neither from within nor without has anything occurred to disturb the general harmony.

We have received and discharged a larger number of boys than ever before in a single year. A small number of these had come back to us the second time, and a still smaller number under a third commitment. There is nothing, however, discouraging in the facts as stated, as the few thus received were young in years when first committed. A long experience has given proof that almost every example of this kind has in the end produced the most satisfactory results. Considering these special cases, together with the more persistently incorrigible among all others, it is plainly evident that under a reasonable and equitable discipline they also, by a longer service, did finally secure the necessary promotions, and consequently their honorable discharge. Tracing the lives of many of these boys, after years of trial and a personal contact with the outer world, we have the most gratifying evidence that generally they are doing well, while some of them are not only sustaining themselves but helping others, and are thus making a creditable and manly record among their fellows.

The daily routine of work has been somewhat changed within the past few years, having now under our care a large number of boys committed by the United States district courts. They come to us under various forms and degrees of sentence, and generally from States and Territories having as yet made no provision for their proper care. These boys are often well advanced in years, and some of them as well also in a criminal knowledge of the world, having been to a large extent unfortunate in their environments from early childhood.

Deficient in education, both in letters and morals, they are nevertheless often naturally bright and full of energy, mental and physical.

Slow to accept restraints to which they have never been accustomed, they seldom fail, however, even after many exhibitions of stubborn resistance, to give a willing submission to the school discipline. Having once fully accepted the new conditions, they make rapid progress, both in the school sessions and in their manual training exercises in the shops. These changes have imposed new lines of duty, increasing to some extent the general responsibility, but they have also given increased interest by greatly enlarging the sphere of our possibilities for good.

Regular school sessions have been held in each of the several family schoolrooms, except during the midsummer months. We use the same line of books, but do not aim to reach the higher grades taught in the public schools of the city. This can not be expected, except perhaps in individual cases, as our boys seldom remain long enough to secure such results, and because of their persistent refusal to accept mental training of any kind. We do require, however, that every boy naturally qualified shall be able to read and write, recite the multiplication and other tables readily, and have some practical knowledge of arithmetic in the primary rules before he can secure an honorable discharge. This is supplementary to his having gained all his badges for good behavior and obedience to established rules.

Our expenditures for maintenance during the fiscal year have been made within the sum named for such purposes, and in manner as prescribed by special act of Congress. A small reduction over any previous year in the per capita cost for subsistence has been secured, chiefly as the result of favorable conditions in the markets and by reason of a larger daily average in population.

This matter of a daily food supply is in some respects paramount to all others, involving a relatively large expenditure and having a vital bearing upon the health and comfort of the school. Hence it has been my constant aim to secure the highest standard of excellence in the quality of these necessary supplies, and as well also to guard every avenue open to a possible waste or improvidence in their preparation for daily use.

In addition to these ordinary expenditures, as will appear in the annual report of the treasurer of the school, a large amount has been required to cover necessary repairs to buildings, including extensive changes in our steam-heating system, and in the general pipe service connected with our water supply. The most important among them all, however, is our new bakehouse extension and manual training school building, completed and occupied within the year. This is a substantial brick structure, two full stories in height, and in every way adapted to the purposes for which it was designed and erected.

The second floor of the building is occupied by a class of boys who receive instructions in mechanical training under a modified form of the "sloyd" or Swedish system. This large room has been fitted up with suitable benches, and each furnished with a set of tools. Other necessary appliances of a general character have also been added to make the outfit complete, in order that a practical test may be made as to the comparative value of this system for imparting and receiving instructions in the more practical mechanical industries. This new system would seem to have a special mission, in that it commends itself to every boy old enough to make a kite or pound his own finger in trying to drive a nail. No possible gain to the school is contemplated in this work—the whole object being to interest and instruct the boy in some kind of mechanical labor that will become habitual in time and eventually profitable to himself.

The general health of the school has been very good, and no disease of an epidemic character has been prevalent at any time during the year. Many boys have been cared for in hospital and for various ailments, including casualties from accidents altogether unavoidable and common to the life of every active boy. No deaths have occurred during the present nor within the past three years, which may be considered an unusual record, as it will still further reduce our very low average mortality to a fraction less than five-eighths of 1 per cent. Under special direction of the attending physician, Dr. Charles A. Wells, careful and unremitting attention has been given to the sanitary condition of the several buildings and adjacent grounds. A systematic application has been made at stated intervals of the most approved disinfectants. Water has been freely used as a cleansing medium, and our entire sewerage system has received its full measure of attention. Dr. Wells has been faithful and vigilant in his care of our sick boys, promptly responding to every demand made upon him, regardless alike of time or season. His annual report as published will give official information in detail.

No decided changes have been made either in the time or manner of holding our stated religious services. There has no special fund as yet been provided to maintain a regular chaplain or to remunerate in any way those who have thus gratuitously served us through many successive years.

Ministers of the gospel and prominent laymen, representing many religious organizations in the city and elsewhere, have given us a "helping hand" in the conduct of these services. The entire school is assembled in our main building every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, where many good friends have joined us from time to time in these devotional exercises, to which all have been and all are still cordially invited. The formulas are few and simple—the entire service limited usually to a single hour and always free from sectarian or doctrinal teaching of any kind.

In each of the several family schoolrooms the boys are assembled every Sunday morning for Bible study, under special direction of the teacher in charge. Following what has been his custom for many years, the superintendent has taken an active part in these Sunday-school sessions, and always with much interest and profit to himself, if not to others.

In this connection I desire to express sincere and grateful acknowledgments personally to each and all who have so graciously given us their aid and sympathy in the conduct of these stated religious services.

The year has closed, with few changes in our official force. The service throughout has been well and faithfully rendered and worthy of general commendation. In special cases this service has been exceptionally good, and altogether I have found prompt and efficient helpers in every department of the school work.

In closing this brief writing, gentlemen, members of the board of trustees, you will please accept expressions of my sincere gratitude for your continued confidence and kindness, personal and official.

Our larger and better offerings are due to Him who has crowned the year with His blessings.

Respectfully submitted.

G. A. SHALLENBERGER,

TRUSTEES REFORM SCHOOL DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

EXHIBIT N.—Report of the board of trustees of the Reform School for Girls of the District of Columbia.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1, 1897.

SIR: I respectfully submit herewith the fifth annual report of the board of trustees of the Reform School for Girls of the District of Columbia, together with the reports of the superintendent of the visiting physician and of the treasurer of the school.

The school was opened on November 6, 1893, during which time 74 girls have been admitted: In 1893-94, 38; in 1894-95, 14; in 1895-96, 10, and in 1896-97, 12. Fifty-one girls have either been released as reformed or have been apprenticed or have been sent away from the school: To Board of Children's Guardians, 12; to parents or family, 20; apprenticed, 14; to the Government Asylum for the Insane, 1; to the Albany County penitentiary, by the supreme court of the District of Columbia, for arson, 2; deceased, 1, and released at 21 years of age, 2. Sixteen girls have escaped: In 1893-94, 4; in 1894-95, 1; in 1895-96, 3, and in 1896-97, 8, all of whom, with the exception of 3 girls who escaped in August, 1895, have been brought back to the school within a short time. Two girls who were apprenticed escaped from their employers and were married. Eleven girls have been returned: Five by the Board of Children's Guardians, 5 by persons to whom the girls were apprenticed, and 1 by a girl's mother who found it impossible to manage her. The latter is the only case where a girl who has been released to her family or relations has been returned to the school. The trustees endeavor to keep track of girls released. With this and one other exception, as far as is known by them, the girls have done well, and are thought to have been thoroughly trained in their work and to have improved from the instruction given them in school.

The following facts will explain why so many girls have escaped from the school: When the building was turned over by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to the board of trustees one can hardly imagine how ill adapted it was for its purposes. There were no gratings upon the windows or doors; the locks and doors to the inmates' rooms were such as would be placed in an ordinary dwelling; the girls' part of the building was not properly separated from that of the officers; the fence surrounding the yard was easy to climb, and the cellar was arranged in such a manner that it was a simple thing to escape by the windows and doors. The trustees have been obliged to expend from the appropriations for maintenance a large sum of money in order to make the building secure against escapes. It is now believed that, provided the officers exercise proper care and supervision over the girls, the chance of escaping is reduced to a minimum. It must, however, be remembered that in all prison and reformatory institutions, even in those where the supervision of prisoners is strict, the escape of prisoners is by no means uncommon.

In the previous annual reports, particularly in those for the years 1894 and 1895, I dwelt at some length upon the history of the school and upon statistics regarding girl criminals in the District of Columbia, to which special attention is called.

The school has been opened nearly four years, and anyone who has studied the problem can not fail to be convinced that the foundation of a great work, much needed in the District, has been laid. The work of the last year has given us great encouragement. There have been many difficulties in our way, and I am frank in saying that at times the task has seemed almost an impossible one. The institution has been grossly misrepresented before and to members of Congressional committees, and has been unfairly dealt with by the press to such an extent that I believe the citizens of the District of Columbia have an unfavorable impression regarding the school, which in reality compares favorably with similar institutions.

Any school built and maintained at a large expense must of necessity be extravagant, especially when the school accommodates only 27 girls. In no sense is the school a colored reform school, at least not under the law by which Congress established the school, for under that law the school is intended for the reformation of both white and colored girls. As far as I know no one has ever applied to send white girls to the school and the judges of the courts have not committed any, but the judges of the courts, as well as the police, would agree that there are many white girls in the District who should be sent to just such an institution instead of to the jail and workhouse. If any addition is made to the school then accommodation can be built for both white and colored girls. Anyone who is familiar with the difficulties attendant upon having white and colored girls would, I think, agree that it is best to separate the two races, particularly when they belong to a criminal or lower class.

Our principal difficulties can be traced to the laws made by Congress establishing the school. Under the law girls under 18 years of age are committed to the school until they reach the age of 21, unless sooner released by the trustees, which is a source of trouble. Only a month ago a girl was committed to the school by the police court under the impression that she was under 18. The girl herself has a bad criminal record, has been well known to the police, and insisted that she was over 18. A doctor who examined the girl thought she must be 20. I called upon and wrote to the judge of the police court who committed the girl to the school, and begged him in person and by letter not to send the girl to the school. Such a girl can accomplish no end of evil. The building is constructed in such a way that unless the girl is shut up in her own room, continually, she must associate with little girls (some only 12 years of age) who have done nothing worse than to be wild and unmanageable and beyond the control of their parents or guardians.

The latter class of girls can be reformed, but a hardened criminal, known in the lowest dens of Washington, such as is often sent us by the courts, not only can not be reformed, but is only happy when she gets hold of girls at the school who are trying to do well and does all in her power to make others as bad as herself. We have had riots, though that may be a rather strong term; we have had escapes, as statistics will show; we have had two girls sent to the Albany County penitentiary, by the supreme court of the District of Columbia, for arson, in all of which cases the trouble can be directly traced to girls who are not fit to be sent to a reformatory institution. Yet if the courts send girls to the school the trustees can do nothing but receive them. I agree entirely with the superintendent, who suggests that the age of admission should be reduced from 18 to 16 years, and the age of dismissal from 21 to 18 years. Even then it would not be wise to send girls to the school who have served jail sentences.

The District is filled with a large class of girls, white as well as colored, who are not criminals, and yet need the care and protection and instruction which our institution furnishes, in order to make them good and useful women. I have visited several reformatory institutions which have a national reputation for the good work done in them. In no instance, as far as I observed, were criminals of the worst type allowed to mingle with those who had been committed for minor offenses; the different classes are separated. As I have above stated, the building is constructed in such a manner that it is impossible to separate girls; they are obliged to use the same laundry, the same kitchen, the same dining room, and the same schoolroom. The institution is not large enough to admit hardened criminals, and as long as this is done with the present accommodations there is sure to be trouble and insubordination. If Congress should increase the capacity of the school, then a building could be constructed where good and bad girls might be kept apart. In that case the law, as it exists, regarding the age of admission and dismissal might well stand.

I desire to call especial attention to the report of the superintendent, herewith submitted, whose devotion and interest in the school has done much during the last year toward bringing the institution to its present satisfactory condition. Her recommendations are approved by the trustees.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

Appropriation.—For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899, the following appropriations are asked:

Salaries.—Superintendent, $1,000; matron, $600; two teachers, at $480 each; overseer, $720; engineer, $480; night watchman, $365; laborer, $300, and treasurer, $600; in all, $5,025.

Maintenance.—For groceries, provisions, fuel, soap, oil, lamps, candles, clothing, shoes, forage, horseshoeing, medicine, medical attendance, hack hire, transportation, labor, freight, furniture, lumber, beds, bedding, sewing machines, fixtures, books, stationery, horses, vehicles, harness, cows, pigs, fowls, stables, sheds, fences, repairs, and other necessary items; in all, $6,000.

New building.—On behalf of the trustees of the school I desire to emphasize again the necessity of obtaining from Congress additional appropriations in order to increase the efficiency of the school and enable the trustees to run the institution upon a more economical basis. If Congress will appropriate $50,000, ninety or more rooms could be added to the school, and if this is done no additional force would be necessary to run the school except, possibly, two teachers. The experience of the past year has shown that the present force, though it may seem large to care for the present number of inmates, is absolutely essential in order to oversee the girls properly in their work and to prevent them from escaping from the institution. The present building could be much improved upon as a reformatory institution and, if Congress should decide to increase the capacity of the school and appropriate the above-named sum, I would respectfully suggest that the plans for such an addition to the school, when carefully prepared by an architect, under the direction of the board of trustees of the Reform School for Girls, be submitted to the Attorney-General of the United States and the Engineer Commissioner of the District of Columbia for their approval.

Painting.—The gutters, cornices, window frames, and doors of the exterior of the building are in need of paint. Owing to the change last year of the heating system the interior walls, which have never been painted, are much disfigured. Congress is asked to appropriate $1,200 in order to enable the trustees to do this painting. If possible, this appropriation should be available at once.

Cementing cellar floors.—When the building was handed over to the trustees the cellar was not cemented, and in the winter of 1894 the cellar was concreted by the men upon the place. The cement has not worn well, and is in bad condition. This cement should be removed and the brick floor, which is underneath, should be covered with Portland cement. Estimates which have been made show that to do this will cost $500, for which an appropriation is asked. If possible, this appropriation should be made available at once.

Storage house.—As will be shown by the report of the superintendent, the farm is at present in excellent condition, and a suitable building to store winter vegetables, such as potatoes, cabbages, parsnips, etc., is sadly needed. Congress is asked to appropriate $2,500 to build such a building, which will be a great economy, as in past years vegetables raised upon the farm have been sold because there was no place where they could be stored in winter.

The office of treasurer.—In accordance with the law establishing the school, a treasurer was appointed by the trustees, which appointment was approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia on December 18, 1896, "on condition that no liability for a salary be incurred until an appropriation is made therefor by Congress." In the general deficiency bill, approved June 8, 1896, the following will be found under the heading "District of Columbia:—"

Reform School for Girls: To pay the treasurer a salary of fifty dollars per month from January first to June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and ninety-six, three hundred dollars.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, Congress has made no appropriation. It is urged by the trustees that in the first deficiency bill passed by Congress an appropriation of $600 be made, to be available at once, to pay the treasurer from July 1, 1896, to June 30, 1897; that for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898, an appropriation of $25 per month be made from July 1, 1897, to June 30, 1898, which is asked in view of the fact that Congress has appropriated only $300 to pay the treasurer. This appears to be in direct violation of the law made by Congress itself, which states (Supp. Rev. Stat., Vol. I, p. 596) that the board of trustees have authority to appoint such officers, agents, teachers, and other employees as may be necessary, and to fix the rate of compensation of the same, subject to the approval of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

For the year ending June 30, 1899, Congress is begged to make an appropriation of $600 to pay the treasurer.

The office of treasurer requires careful and laborious work, and before entering upon the duties of her office the treasurer was obliged under the law (Supp. Rev. Stat. U. S., Vol. I, second edition, p. 101, chap. 90, sec. 4) to give a bond to the United States, with two or more sureties to be approved by the First Comptroller of the Treasury, in the sum of $20,000, conditioned that she shall faithfully account for all the money received by her as treasurer.

Unless these appropriations are made the trustees are in danger of finding themselves without any treasurer, as it is not reasonable to suppose that anyone would long continue to disburse funds when it is uncertain whether any salary will be paid, or, if paid, is at variance with the compensation fixed by the trustees at the time of employment and is wholly inadequate to the work which a treasurer is obliged to perform and entirely out of proportion to the bond required by the Government, the premium on which bond, if taken by a surety company, would be nearly half the salary as now appropriated by Congress.

Pasture for cattle.—There is no place at the school upon which to pasture our cattle and horses. If Congress will grant for the use of the school 10 or 15 acres of Government land in that neighborhood it would assist us greatly.

Heading under which school is placed in District appropriation bill.—In the District appropriation bills the Reform School for Girls of the District of Columbia has been placed, since the founding of the school, under the head of charities and corrections, while the Boys' Reform School has been placed under the head of reformatories and prisons. As the two schools are practically upon the same footing, it is desirable that the Reform School for Girls should be placed under the head of reformatories and prisons, over which the Department of Justice has control.

Appointment and confirmation of officers.—The trustees of the Boys' Reform School appoint certain officers whose salaries are fixed by law, and have authority to appoint such other employees as may be necessary and fix their compensation subject to the approval of the Attorney-General. Section 6 of the act of July 9, 1888, establishing the Reform School for Girls (Supp. Rev. Stat., Vol. I, second edition, p. 596, chap. 595) is as follows:

SEC. 6. That all the sections of the act of May third, eighteen hundred and seventy-six, entitled "An act revising and amending the various acts establishing and relating to the Reform School of the District of Columbia," not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby made applicable to the Reform School for Girls of the District of Columbia, except the word "girls" shall be understood wherever the word "boys" occur in said act, and the words "eighteen years" wherever the words "sixteen years" occur.

The main difference between these two schools lies in the fact that in the Boys' Reform School, as above stated, the appointments of officers, etc., are approved by the Attorney-General, and in the Girls' Reform School the following is in force (Supp. Rev. Stat., Vol. I, second edition, p. 596, chap. 595, sec. 4):

SEC. 4. That said board of trustees shall have authority to appoint such officers, agents, teachers, and other employees as may be necessary, and fix the rate of compensation of the same, subject to the approval of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

I believe it to be for the interest of the institution that section 4 of the act of July 9, 1888, should be repealed, so that section 3 of the act of May 3, 1896, shall apply to the Reform School for Girls, whose officers (should this be done) would be appointed by the board of trustees as at present, but such appointments would be approved by the Attorney-General.

At the close of the reports herewith annexed will be found the following:

EXHIBIT A (1, 2, 3, 4, and 5).—Appropriations for years ending June 30, 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, and 1898.

EXHIBIT B.—Estimates for salaries for employees, for the maintenance, and for improvements for fiscal year ending June 30, 1899.

EXHIBIT C.—List showing by whom the girls were committed to the school since its opening.

EXHIBIT D.—List of offenses for which girls were committed since its opening.

EXHIBIT E.—Number of inmates released from the school since its opening and to whom committed.

Yours, respectfully,

WILLIAM C. ENDICOTT, Jr.,
President Board of Trustees.

REPORT OF VISITING PHYSICIAN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30, 1897.

SIR: Since the appearance of the last report the health of the inmates of the institution has been excellent, with the exception of the case of pulmonary consumption mentioned in my previous report, who died in April of this year. The room occupied by her has been thoroughly cleaned and the walls painted, so that any possible future danger of infection from this case has been eliminated.

A dentist has visited the school on two occasions, and there has been much less complaint on the part of the girls, both as regards their teeth and other minor ailments.

Each new girl has been vaccinated. Several of them have shown a marked reaction, and necessity for enforcing this rule has been clearly proved.

There has been no case of malaria during the past year. Under the new superintendent the health of the girls has been much more carefully looked after than had been previously the case, and the improvement in the general condition of the girls is marked.

The need of a few surgical instruments and a small number of the standard drugs to be kept at the school is again brought to your notice.

Very respectfully,

RUPERT NORTON, M. D.,
Visiting Physician.

EXHIBIT O.—Report of the Warden of the United States jail in the District of Columbia.

WARDEN'S OFFICE, UNITED STATES JAIL,
Washington, D. C., November 1, 1897.

SIR: I have the honor to submit herewith my annual report of this jail for the year ending October 31, 1897.

The jail is in a good sanitary condition, apart from the malarial fever of inmates and officers, induced by the proximity of the jail to the marshes of the Eastern Branch of the Potomac.

We are indebted to the Department of Justice and to the honorable judges of the supreme court of the District of Columbia and the United States district attorney for their assistance and for their promptness in disposing of those cases held for trial.

I include herewith the report of the jail physician regarding the medical conduct of the jail; also tables giving a detailed account of the business of the jail.

Very respectfully,

JOHN R. LEONARD,
Warden United States Jail.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

REPORT OF PHYSICIAN TO JAIL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 1, 1897.

SIR: I respectfully submit my report for the year ending October 31, 1897, on the medical conduct of the jail.

Apart from malarial fever and minor complaints, the health of the prisoners has been remarkably good.

One prisoner died from pulmonary consumption. When he was sent to the jail his disease was very advanced.

One inmate had severe croupous pneumonia, from which he recovered.

During the past year the officers and prisoners have suffered unusually from the malarial miasm of the Eastern Branch. A large number of the officers had unusually severe and protracted attacks of malarial fever, both intermittent and remittent. They were compelled to be absent from the jail so often and so long as to seriously embarrass the executive management of the jail.

Apart from this malarial miasm, the sanitary condition of the jail has been excellent.

Respectfully,

D. KERFOOT SHUTE, M. D.,
Physician United States Jail.

Col. JOHN R. LEONARD,
Warden United States Jail.

EXHIBIT P.—Report of the Architect of the Capitol.

ARCHITECT'S OFFICE, UNITED STATES CAPITOL,
Washington, D. C., October 20, 1897.

SIR: I have the honor to report the following repairs and improvements to court-house, this city, made since the last report of this office:

For the accommodation of the equity court the rooms formerly occupied by the surveyor of the District of Columbia have been remodeled, a court room 35 by 42 feet constructed and furnished with walnut desk and railing surrounding it, for judge. This room was plastered and papered, the flooring repaired, and the heating apparatus rearranged, with two new heating chambers in the basement. The two rooms west of the court room were fitted up, one for a retiring room for the judge and the other for the clerk's office. A toilet room was also fitted up.

Three rooms in the first story of west wing were fitted up for the surveyor of the District of Columbia, with the necessary shelving, closets, and gas fixtures. The jury room in the northeast was papered. A large skylight was constructed in the roof to light the corridors. A file room has been established in the basement, at the former north entrance. The ceilings and walls of the rooms occupied by the recorder of deeds have been painted. Other portions of the building have been painted, the ceilings and walls of the basement story have been white-washed, and repairs made to the steam heating apparatus and to the plumbing.

Very respectfully,

EDWARD CLARK,
Architect United States Capitol.

EXHIBIT Q.—Report of the attorney in charge of pardons.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, D. C., July 1, 1897.

SIR: I have the honor to state that during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, there have been filed in this office 669 applications for executive clemency. Three hundred and thirty-four applications have been considered by the President and acted upon as follows:

Unconditional pardons granted.....	80
Conditional pardons granted.....	5
Sentences commuted.....	98
Pardons granted for the purpose of restoring citizenship.....	31
Cases in which fines were remitted.....	5
Respite.....	5
Applications denied.....	110
Total.....	334

Under the rules adopted by you and approved by the President, cases in which neither the United States attorney nor the trial judge recommend clemency are not considered by the President unless it is apparent that the health of the convict will be very seriously impaired by further confinement.

I submit herewith a statement showing the names of persons convicted in the United States courts who were pardoned or whose sentences were commuted or respited by the President during the fiscal year. This statement also shows the district in which the convicts were tried, when they were convicted, their offense, and the date upon which the President acted, with the nature of such action.

Yours respectfully,

J. H. CAMPBELL,
Pardon Attorney.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

This convict has been imprisoned 2 years and 6 months. On his own account I do not regard him entitled to the least clemency. He has, however, a wife and 8 children who are in a destitute condition, and the situation is made more pitiable by the fact that the wife has lately had a stroke of paralysis, from which there seems to be no hope of her recovery. I understand employment

W. G. Hamner.....	Virginia, western....	Mar. 16, 1895	Embezzling funds of bank.	Mar. 16, 1895; 7 years in Kings County penitentiary.do	Sentence commuted to 4 years' imprisonment, with all deductions earned by good behavior in prison. I have hesitated in this case as to whether I was justified in granting any measure of clemency. I have determined, however, to reduce the term of this convict, yielding to the impression made upon me by the frank and manly statement the convict makes of his crime, evidencing deep contrition and humiliation, and influenced by sympathy for his distressed wife and family and pity for his aged mother, together with such representations by the officers of the defrauded bank and others, as have persuaded me that I can, with a due regard for the public interests, extend clemency.
Harry Millerman	Indian Territory, northern.	Sept. 14, 1896	Grand larceny	Sept. 14, 1896; 1 year in Muscogee Jail, Indian Territory, and fine of $10 and costs.do	Sentence commuted to 6 months' actual imprisonment. This commutation is granted upon the ground that in view of all the facts and considering the character of the convict and the condition of his family and the grade of his offense his punishment under the commutation granted will answer the ends of justice.
Frank Opel.....	Arkansas, western..	Mar. 1, 1899	Murder.....	Apr. 29, 1899; to be hanged July 17, 1899, which sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life.	Feb. 25, 1897	Sentence commuted to 10 years' actual imprisonment. Some of the features of this case are brutal and revolting. It seems, however, to have lacked the element of premeditation necessary to constitute murder, and the good conduct of the convict in prison, together with the evidence he furnishes of penitence and a desire to reform himself, has impressed me with the belief that the punishment he will suffer under this commutation will answer all the purposes of criminal justice.
Thomas M. Grady.....	Pennsylvania, eastern.	Aug. 20, 1895	Willfully misapplying and embezzling funds of a national bank.	Aug. 20, 1895; 7 years in Eastern penitentiary and to pay costs.do	Sentence commuted to 3 years' actual imprisonment. I can not yield to the very persuasive application for pardon in this case. I am moved, however, to grant a commutation which will reduce his imprisonment by the representations made to me concerning his health and physical condition, by his frank acknowledgement of guilt and efforts to make restitution for his wrongdoing and by my sympathy for his aged mother. These and other considerations satisfy me; public interests will not suffer through the measure of clemency I have determined upon.

Marlon Gamble.....	Montana.....	Dec. term, 1883.	Robbing United States mails by putting in jeopardy life of carrier.	Dec. 18, 1883; imprisonment for life in Territorial prison of Montana. (Transferred to Alluany County penitentiary).	Feb. 19, 1897	adding the execution of the law and the enforcement of the debts due the suspended bankrupts to the clemency I have extended. Sentences commuted to 14 years' actual imprisonment. This commutation is granted because it is reliably represented to me that the convict has behaved well during the long term of imprisonment he has already served and by his conduct and professions has gained the confidence and good will of his prison keepers and furnished evidence of penitence and a determination to reform his life. In my opinion this measure of clemency is further justified on the ground of his impaired health, by the facts that his accomplices in crime were long ago released, that respectable employment awaits him on his discharge, and that clemency in his behalf is recommended by the judge who sentenced him and the district attorney who prosecuted him.
Francesco Gonzales y Barrego, Antonio Gonzales y Barrego, Lauriano Alord, and Patricia Valencia. Robert E. Baker alias Hamilton E. Baker.	New Mexico.....		Murder.....	—; to be hanged on Feb. 23, 1897.	Feb. 20, 1897	A respite is granted in this case for 4 weeks and until the 23d day of March, 1897, for the purpose of permitting an opportunity to the Executive to examine into the merits of an application for clemency. Granted. This convict has been imprisoned about 1 year, and while as a general rule I am not inclined to interfere in cases of this kind, I have determined to extend clemency in this instance because of the distressed condition of the convict's family, and upon the earnest solicitation of the district attorney who prosecuted him and in the belief that the ends of justice have been already fully met.
Mitt Holmes.....	Indian Territory, southern.	Sept. 22, 1896	Larceny.....	Sept. 22, 1896; 9 months in United States jail at Ardmore, Ind. T., and to pay a fine of $100.do.....	Sentence commuted to 6 months' actual imprisonment. The health of this convict is seriously impaired; he is quite old, and clemency in his case is recommended by the judge who sentenced him and the district attorney who prosecuted him.
W. J. Jones, alias Jasper Jones.	Alabama, northern..	Dec. 4, 1896	Illicit distilling.....	Dec. 14, 1896; 6 months in Jefferson County jail and to pay costs of prosecution.	Feb. 10, 1897	Sentence commuted to 3 months' actual imprisonment. This convict richly deserved the sentence imposed on him and the sole reason of my interference is found in the impoverished and distressed condition of his wife and children.

June 27, 1897; to pay a fine of $250 and costs and 1 year in St. Louis city jail, which term of imprisonment has long since expired.	Feb. 24, 1897	Granted for the purpose of restoring rights of citizenship. This convict was discharged from imprisonment about 8 years ago, and it is abundantly shown that his conduct since his release has been of such an exemplary and law-abiding kind as to demonstrate that his restoration to the rights of citizenship may be safely granted.

C. C. Smith.....	Alabama, northern.	Apr. 18, 1895	Conspiracy to defraud the United States.	Apr. 24, 1895; 1 year in Walker County jail and fine of $1,000 and costs.	Feb. 8, 1897	signed by a great number of the good citizens residing at the place where the convict's crime was committed, including many of the depositors in the bank whose funds were despoiled, reenforced by the recommendation for clemency submitted by the judge who sentenced the convict, and the district attorney who presented him. Granted for the purpose of a restoration to citizenship. It abundantly appears that this convict, since his release from imprisonment nearly a year ago, has lived an exemplary and industrious life, and evinced a desire to regain the good opinion of his neighbors, and I am willing to aid and encourage him in his efforts. Sentence commuted to 1 year and 3 months' actual imprisonment. I am satisfied that this convict was not justified in the resistance and violence of which he was convicted. I am, however, of the opinion that the circumstances connected with the transaction may be regarded as so far extenuating his conduct as to entitle him to the reduction of his sentence resulting from this commutation. Granted for the purpose of a restoration of the rights of citizenship. The peculiar circumstances surrounding this case, and the good character of the convict prior to the offense of which he was convicted, and the fact that the act itself did not involve moral turpitude, incline me to grant this pardon very soon after the expiration of sentence.

This convict received a very severe sentence for horse stealing. In view of all the circumstances connected with the case and the impaired condition of the convict's health, I am satisfied that the imprisonment he will suffer under this commutation will satisfy the ends of justice.

Cash Ellis.....	Jan. 15, 1895	Perjury.....	Apr. 25, 1895; 3 years and 6 months in Kings County penitentiary. Sentences in both cases to run concurrently.				behavior. This convict was confined in jail 1 year before his sentence to prison was entered upon, and this commutation operates to reduce his imprisonment under his sentence, taking into account earned deductions about 8 months. The case presents no merits so far as the convict himself is concerned, and the measure of clemency determined on is granted solely on account of his distressed and destitute wife and children who have aroused my pity.
Arkansas, western.....	Mar. 14, 1889	Assault with intent to kill.	Mar. 14, 1889; 3 years in State penitentiary at Little Rock, Ark.	Feb. 2, 1897			Pardon granted upon both convictions. This pardon is granted for the reason that the convict has suffered his full term of imprisonment reduced by good conduct in prison, and for the further reason that the ends of justice seem to demand that the convict be restored to his civil rights and to competency as a witness.
South Carolina.....	Dec. 1892	Introducing and selling intoxicants in the Indian Territory.	Dec. 20, 1892; 1 year and 1 day in Detroit house of correction.				Granted for the purpose of restoring rights of citizenship. This convict, since his release from prison has indicated, I am informed, an inclination to live an honest life, and I believe him to be worthy to be again invested with his forfeited civil rights.
G. T. Baughman	Mar. 13, 1893	Counterfeiting.....	Mar. 13, 1893; 3 years at hard labor in Ohio penitentiary, at Columbus, Ohio, and fine of $500.	Feb. 8, 1897			Granted for the purpose of restoring civil rights. This convict, since his discharge from imprisonment more than a year ago, has behaved in a law-abiding manner, and before his conviction his character seems to have been good. The restoration of his rights of citizenship seems entirely proper.
California, southern.....	Sept. 22, 1894	Conspiracy to obstruct and retard the passage of United States mails (sec. 5440 Rev. Stat.).	Sept. 24, 1894; 18 months in Los Angeles County jail and fine of $1,000.do			Granted. The sentence of this convict was so unaccountably lenient and his guilt was so clear that no consideration arising out of the facts of the case as they are related to the convict himself would incline me to interfere with his punishment.
Arkansas, eastern ..	Nov. 14, 1896	Passing counterfeit paper money.	Nov. 23, 1896; 6 months in United States penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and fine of $100 and costs.do			I can not, however, close my heart to the distressing representation that very lately and since the imprisonment of the convict his wife has died, leaving motherless a large family of small children, one of them an infant a few weeks old. The pardon is granted solely on their account, and in the hope that the release of their father will relieve their destitute and forlorn condition.

This convict has but 2 months of imprisonment to serve to complete his sentence, and this pardon is granted upon the ground that he is in such a dangerous condition of health as to indicate a speedy fatal termination of the disease from which he is suffering.
Frank Porterfield.....	Tennessee, middle..	Dec. 8, 1893	Embezzling, etc.; funds of national bank.	Dec. 8, 1893; 10 years in Kings County penitentiary.	Feb. 15, 1897	Granted. This convict has already been imprisoned for a longer term than that imposed upon his equally guilty associates in the offense of which he was convicted. He has made all the restitution in his power and without the promise of favor he gave important, if not indispensable, testimony upon the trial of those concerned with him in wrongdoing. His pardon is earnestly requested by the judge who sentenced him and strongly recommended by all those engaged in his prosecution. I am satisfied that his pardon is justified by every consideration that may properly appeal to Executive clemency. Sentence commuted to imprisonment for life.
Alexander Allen	Arkansas, western..	Feb. term, 1893.	Murder in the Cherokee Nation.	Feb. term, 1893; to be hanged on a certain date. Appeal taken to Supreme Court where judgment of lower court was affirmed.	Feb. 16, 1897	This commutation is granted upon the recommendation and desire of members of the Supreme Court who passed upon the appeal taken from the judgment and sentence of the trial court, and upon the statement of the district attorney who prosecuted the convict, to the effect that the extreme penalty of the law should not be inflicted upon him.
W. H. Gibbs	Mississippi, southern.	Nov. 7, 1894	Embezzling post-office funds.	Nov. 11, 1894; 3 years in Kings County penitentiary at hard labor and fine of $3,920.82 and costs.do	Granted for the purpose of restoring rights of citizenship. This convict's term of imprisonment expired in December, 1896. His character prior to his conviction is represented as being so exceptionally good, and his conduct in prison was so exemplary that I am persuaded to extend to him a restoration to citizenship without exacting the usual probationary period.

This convict, with his earned deduction for good behavior in prison, has but about 5 months more of his imprisonment to serve under his sentence. There are circumstances connected with his case that appeal strongly to the pardoning power, and I am convinced that his release at this time will not militate against any of the objects sought to be accomplished by conviction and punishment in such cases. The district attorney who prosecuted the convict is strongly of the opinion that the punishment he has already suffered is abundantly sufficient, and the judge who sentenced him appears to be of the same opinion, though not recommending clemency.
William Davis.....	District of Columbia	Mar. 29, 1895	Larceny from the person.	Mar. 29, 1895, 5 years in Albany County penitentiary.	Jan. 18, 1897	Granted. This convict has now been imprisoned 14 months for selling liquor to Indians, and, while I am convinced that the offense of which he was convicted ought to be sternly and severely punished, I am satisfied that in view of all the facts involved in this particular case the punishment the convict has already suffered sufficiently answers the ends of justice.

James Burdell, alias Charles Harwood.	Michigan, eastern ..	Apr. 10, 1896	Bringing into the United States $25,000 counterfeit bills, with intent to utter, etc. (sec. 5431 Rev. Stat.).	July 2, 1896; sentence suspended and defendant's recognizance in $1,000 personal taken for his appearance when notified.	Dec. 25, 1896	Granted. This convict was indicted in 1895 for bringing counterfeit money from Canada into the United States with the intent of uttering it. In the same year he was indicted, tried, convicted and sentenced to 7 years' imprisonment in Canada for making the identical counterfeit money which was the subject of the indictment in the United States court. All the evidence on the Canadian trial would have been relevant and much of it necessary upon a trial of the indictment pending in our courts, and the United States detective officers engaged in the arrest and indictment of the convict here gave evidence and assisted in his conviction in the Canadian courts. The convict served the imprisonment to which he was sentenced in Canada, and was released therefrom more than 20 years ago. At this late day, owing to the suspicions of United States officers that the convict has since his discharge been connected with other counterfeiting transactions of which legal proof is not procurable, the old indictment is revived in our courts and the convict is again confronted with the evidence marshaled against him in Canada 28 years ago, and thereupon he is again convicted of an offense so related to the one of which he has once been convicted as to permit them to be joined in the same indictment and verdict if the question of jurisdiction did not prevent. It was entirely competent for the Canadian court, in passing sentence, to take into account the evidence before it as to the bringing of the counterfeit money made in Canada to the United States to be uttered; and it is hardly possible that such court failed to consider such evidence in fixing the convict's punishment. Whatever the technical rule of law may be, I do not think it is fair or just to punish this convict again for an offense so nearly involved in his previous conviction. He may not be entitled to much consideration on the score of honesty. I am inclined to think his punishment has not led him to renounce his habits of crime; but the law should not take an unfair advantage of even such a man.

William R. Shaw	Maine	July 1, 1893	Embezzling funds of national bank (two indictments).	July 1, 1893; 10 years in Maine State prison in each case, sentence to run concurrently.do	This convict's term of imprisonment would expire, under his sentence, on the 6th day of January, 1897. The few days of his term that intervene between the date this pardon takes effect and the end of his term as sentenced are remitted upon the recommendation of the officials of the prison, who represent that his conduct in prison has been most exemplary, that he has thoroughly reformed and become a sincere and penitent Christian. I am quite willing, in view of all the facts, to extend to him the measure of encouragement which the opportunity to begin the new year as a free man will afford.
						Sentence commuted to 5 years' imprisonment, with all deductions allowed for good behavior. This convict pleaded guilty to the offense charged against him, and promptly made restitution of all moneys wrongly appropriated by him. Up to the time of the discovery of his defalcation he had borne an excellent character, and his neighbors and friends join in great numbers in an appeal for clemency in his case. Considering all the circumstances, I am satisfied that the purposes of his prosecution and punishment will be subserved by the measure of clemency hereby extended to him.

This convict was released from prison nearly 6 years ago, at the expiration of his sentence. Since that time it is represented to me that he has behaved well and shown a disposition to lead an honest life, and in my opinion it is a proper case for restoration to the rights of citizenship. Granted. The district attorney who prosecuted this convict recommends her pardon. She was indicted with her husband for illicit distilling, and although she pleaded guilty her husband seems to have been the principal offender, and I can not entirely satisfy myself that she was not under his control. The husband has died in prison since his conviction and sentence, and there are a number of children needing their mother's care. On the supposition that the death of the husband has terminated the operation of the illicit still, and in view of the other facts in the case and the condition of the convict's children I think she should be released.

This convict has, ever since his sentence in March, 1896, been confined in jail, instead of the prison to which he was sentenced, and it is represented that his health is bad. The district attorney who prosecuted the case expresses considerable doubt of his guilt, and in any event it is shown that at the time of the homicide he was a deputy marshal, attempting to prevent the sale of liquor to Indians. He has already been imprisoned long enough to teach him that shooting in an attempt to make an arrest must be better justified than it was when he committed his offense, and I think on the whole case his pardon is a safe exercise of Executive clemency. Sentence commuted to 5 months' actual imprisonment and the payment of the fine and costs imposed as a part of the sentence. This convict is in bad health and her children need her care. The judge who sentenced her and the district attorney who prosecuted her concur in recommending clemency, and I am of the opinion that, considering all the facts, the punishment she will suffer under the commutation I have determined on is sufficient.

Augustus C. Hagen ...	New York, southern	June 19, 1894	Embezzling funds of a national bank.	June 19, 1894; 7 years in Erie County Penitentiary.	Dec. 30, 1896	Sentence commuted to 5 years' imprisonment with all deductions allowed by law for good behavior. I have lately extended clemency to the party who was convicted of participating in this prisoner's crime. I think the facts presented in this case justify me in making a deduction from this convict's sentence that will preserve the difference made by the court in the sentences of the two parties, and at the same time fully answer the objects of their trial and conviction.
John Thomas Bush, alias George Brown.	Japan.....	June 27, 1895	Manslaughter	June 27, 1895; 3 years in the jail for American convicts at Kanagawa, Japan, and fine of $1,000, to date from June 16, 1896.	Dec. 31, 1896	Sentence commuted to 3 years' imprisonment, the fine included in said sentence being remitted. This convict was, in my opinion, clearly guilty of manslaughter, and the term of imprisonment to which he was sentenced did not constitute a severe punishment for his offense. I do not see any propriety in adding to this sentence of a poor sailor in a strange land a fine of $1,000. The record on proceedings before me do not show that the convict was informed that he had a right to testify in his own behalf. If this information was entirely omitted it constitutes a grave error, even though it probably would not have changed the result if the convict had been informed of his right and availed himself of it. I am not, however, entirely clear that he was ignorant of his right to testify. In a letter to his brother, now before (me), the convict says, referring to his trial: "My testimony was objected to by my counsel, and for what reason I do not know." This indicates that he knew he had a right to testify and was prevented from doing so by his counsel. No question as to this right seems to have been raised on the part of the convict nor any objection made to any ruling of the court on the subject.

the manner and extent of such participation.

Sentence committed in each case to the payment of a fine of $1 and $1 of the costs. I am unwilling by granting a pardon in these cases to indicate an abandonment of any part of our public lands to the depredations of those who unlawfully cut timber thereon. There are 43 of these convictions, and many more complained of were discharged from prosecution. It is indicated by the judge who sentenced these defendants that they cut the timber for profit and not on account of their poverty and necessity. Their pardon is favored by both the judge and the district attorney who officiated at the court where they were sentenced, and they are said to be very poor. Instead, however, of pardoning these offenders, I have concluded to relieve them from the payment of the most of the costs, with the distinct understanding that it is done in the expectation that in the future they will obey the law for the protection of our public lands.

Dong Sun.....	California, northern.	Aug. 20, 1896	Contempt of court....	Aug. 20, 1896; 6 months in San Francisco County jail.	Dec. 7, 1896	Granted. This prisoner has been confined more than 24 months for contempt of court. It seems to me he has already suffered sufficiently for his offense, and his pardon is recommended by the district attorney, who is fully acquainted with the facts, and by the judge who committed the prisoner.
Charles E. Bartholomew.	New York, southern	May 9, 1894	Embezzling funds of national bank (sec. 5209 Rev. Stat.).	June 19, 1894; 5 years in Kings County penitentiary.	Dec. 22, 1896	Granted. This convict has been imprisoned more than 2 years and 6 months and there remains but about 1 year more of his term. He pleaded guilty to the charge made against him, and has at all times since the discovery of his wrongdoing exhibited the utmost penitence and contrition. Prior to the commission of his offense he had maintained an exceptionally good character, and it is entirely clear that he is not of a criminal disposition. He has a family sadly in need of his support, and notwithstanding his conviction respectable employment is offered him upon his release. In view of all the facts in the case I am entirely satisfied that, so far as the convict himself is concerned, the punishment he has already suffered is abundant to answer the ends of justice, and in my opinion his pardon will not injuriously weaken the deterrent effect on others, which is an important object in the punishment of the offense of which he has been convicted. Sentence commuted to imprisonment for life.
Willie Johnson, alias Willie Overton.	Arkansas, western..	Mar. 7, 1894	Murder.....	May 4, 1894; to be hanged July 25, 1894. Appeal taken to Supreme Court, and Nov. 27, 1896, resentence to be hanged Feb. 25, 1896.do	There seems to be a doubt in the minds of all who have judicially examined this case, both in the trial and appellate court, as to the guilt of the convict of murder in the first degree, notwithstanding the verdict of the jury. I am decidedly of the opinion that the safe course to pursue is to commute the sentence to life imprisonment, as I do not understand the doubt referred to goes to the extent of suggesting that the convict is innocent of any participation in the crime charged against him, but simply relates to

James Mahoney	New York, southern	June 19, 1895	Possessing and having in possession counterfeit coins.	July 1, 1895; 5 years in Erie County penitentiary and fine of $1.	Nov. 23, 1896	ney, by which he was enabled to prosecute other violators of the law. Granted. This pardon is granted solely upon the ground of the convict's condition of health. Representations originally made have been supplemented by an investigation which I have personally directed. As a result of those, I am forced to the belief that the convict has a mortal disease in an advanced stage, which makes the duration of his life very precarious and short at best. The choice seems to be between continuous and progressive illness and death in prison or at home. Granted. This applicant for pardon served a term of imprisonment and was discharged more than 2 years ago. This pardon is granted for the reason that it is represented to me that his testimony is necessary to accomplish the ends of justice in an important trial. Granted to restore rights of citizenship. The term for which this convict was imprisoned expired more than 5 years ago. Since his release he appears to have lived a decent life, and the evidence before me indicates that he has determined to regain a respectable standing among his neighbors. I believe therefore that (this) is a proper case for the restoration of forfeited rights of citizenship.

Eugene Fairchild.....	Illinois, southern...	July 8, 1881	Making and having in possession counterfeit silver coin; case No. 4546. Making and having in possession counterfeit coin; case No. 4563.	July 8, 1881; case No. 4546, 1 year in Southern Illinois penitentiary; case No. 4563, 1 year in same penitentiary to begin at expiration of sentence in former case.	Nov. 4, 1896	Granted. This pardon is granted upon the ground that in any event the punishment already suffered by the convict is sufficient to answer the ends of justice, and upon the further ground that the escape from punishment of another apparently equally guilty makes longer confinement of this prisoner seem a hardship. Granted for the purpose of restoring rights of citizenship. This convict was discharged from prison more than 13 years ago, and the evidence before me is very satisfactory to the effect that since his discharge he has led an honest life and that he enjoys the respect and confidence of the community where he resides. I am therefore quite clear that a restoration of his rights of citizenship will be well bestowed.

Dec. 4, 1896	Sentence commuted in each case to the pay- ment of a fine of $1 and $1 of the costs. I am unwilling, by granting a pardon in these cases, to include an absolution of any part of our public land to the depredations of those who unlawfully cut timber there- on. There are 13 of these convicted, and many more complained of. I have ordered judges to prosecute the defendants, and they must be convicted. I am not sanguine of their poverty and necessity. Granted for the purpose of restoring rights of citizenship. This convict was discharged from an imprisonment of a year nearly 14 years ago, and his conduct since his release has indicated a purpose to live as a good citizen. I am of the opinion, therefore, that his restoration to citizenship is merited. Sentence commuted to 5 years imprisonment with all earned deductions on account of good behavior. An associate in the crime of which this prisoner was convicted received a few months ago the same commutation determined upon in this case. It is based chiefly upon the recommendation of the judge and district attorney and the fact that after his conviction the prisoner gave important information to the district attorney.

William Ardy	Arkansas, western..	Dec. 5, 1894	Assault with intent to kill.	Dec. 12, 1894; 3 years in Detroit house of correction.	Nov. 11, 1896	warning to the thousands equally guilty though unpunished, and to those who may be hereafter tempted, that the laws enacted to secure peace and order must be obeyed. Granted. This convict is a colored youth who has already been imprisoned nearly 2 years, and there remains but about 6 months of the term of imprisonment to which he was sentenced. He has consumption in an advanced stage, and his death seems so inevitable and near that the question appears to be whether he will die in prison or at home with his parents. In view of all the facts in his case I do not hesitate to grant his release. Recommended by the judge who recommended him and the district attorney who prosecuted him. Upon the facts presented to me I am clearly of the opinion he should be released, even if the homicide of which he was convicted was intentionally committed, of which some doubt may reasonably be entertained. In its worst phase it seems to me the homicide occurred when the convict was attempting to defend his mother from the violent assaults of her brutal and drunken husband. Granted. This convict has already been imprisoned more than 4 months, and this pardon is granted upon the representations made to me concerning his bad health and because I am of the opinion that the imprisonment he has already suffered is, in view of all the facts, an adequate punishment for his offenses. Granted for the purpose of restoring rights of citizenship. This convict was discharged from the imprisonment to which he was sentenced for his crime more than 2 years ago, and has since that time lived a reputable and honest life. I am therefore of the opinion that this restoration of his civil rights is a proper exercise of clemency. Sentence committed to 5 months' actual imprisonment. This convict is an old man and his health is seriously impaired. In view of this fact and the other circumstances surrounding the case I am of the opinion that the commutation I have determined on answers the ends of justice.

Joseph W. Cameron.....	New York, northern.	Jan. 23, 1896	Forgery	Jan. 23, 1896; 2 years at hard labor in Erie County penitentiary and fine of $25.	Oct. 10, 1896	them that the convict was a victim of mistaken identity and that he is innocent of the crime of which he was convicted. After a very careful examination of the case, I have arrived at the conclusion that the very serious doubts which exist as to his guilt ought in favor of personal liberty lead to his release.
Albert J. Ellis, alias John Harding.	District of Columbia	Oct. 14, 1891	Assault.....	Oct. 14, 1891; 5 years' imprisonment at hard labor and to be dishonorably discharged from United States service, forfeiting all pay and allowances now due or to become due.	Oct. 26, 1896	Sentence commuted to 1 year of actual imprisonment. I can not grant an unconditional pardon in this case because I am not clear the representations made warrant it. I can not, however, disregard the recommendations coming from official sources in favor of clemency, and have therefore concluded to reduce the convict's time of imprisonment to the extent indicated.
Manson L. Gilbert.....	New York, northern	Mar. 27, 1896	Breaking into post-office.	Mar. 27, 1896; 18 months in Dannemora prison and fine of $25.do	Granted. This applicant for pardon suffered the punishment imposed upon him by court-martial as the same was afterwards mitigated and was released from imprisonment more than 2 years ago. He now applies for pardon in order that he may be naturalized and become a citizen of the United States. I am satisfied that the merits of his application entitle him to the remission of all disabilities still remaining as consequences of his offense.
Chris. Hansen	Iowa, southern	Apr. 3, 1894	Embezzling contents of a letter.	Apr. 4, 1894; 15 months at hard labor in Iowa State penitentiary and to pay costs.do	Sentence commuted to 9 months' actual imprisonment and the payment of a fine of $25. This convict is very young, and the offense he committed was not serious and seems to have been his first lapse from the ways of honesty. I am of the opinion, considering all the facts, that this boy can be reclaimed and the ends of justice answered by the clemency herein extended.

Granted for the purpose of restoration to citizenship. This convict was released from the imprisonment to which he had been sentenced more than a year ago, and it is represented to me that since that time he has lived an honest life and evinced a determination to regain the confidence of the community in which he lives. I am therefore willing to encourage him to the extent of restoring to him such civil rights as were forfeited by his conviction and sentence.

Emil C. Knappe.....	Massachusetts.....	July 16, 1894	Embezzling funds of national bank.	July 16, 1894; 5 years in Barnstable County jail.	Oct. 30, 1896	Granted. This convict has served more than half of his sentence as reduced by good conduct. When his defalcation was suspected he at once made a full confession, he has restored to the utmost of his ability the funds he appropriated; his character prior to the offense to which he pleaded guilty was exceedingly good and I have never been more fully convinced of the lack of a criminal tendency in a convict the sincerity of repentance and a determination to regain the confidence of the community. He has aged parents and two sisters who need his support and whose sad condition appeals strongly to my sympathy and has enlisted the humane efforts of many good citizens in support of a plea for clemency. I am assured also that employment awaits him on his release. A full examination of all the circumstances surrounding the application for clemency on behalf of this convict satisfies me that the purposes of punishment will be fully reached if the remainder of his sentence is remitted.
Alonso B. Crawford....	Missouri, western ..	Oct. 6, 1894	Embezzlement, false entries in bank books, and false entries in reports to Comptroller. (Sec. 5209, Rev. Stat.)	Oct. 8, 1894; 5 years in Missouri State penitentiary.	Nov. 4, 1896	Sentence commuted to 3 years and 6 months with all lawful deductions for good behavior. The application for pardon in this case is very strongly supported and the faithfulness and devotion of his loving and estimable wife add to its persuasiveness. The convict's health is said also to be somewhat impaired. After a careful consideration I am satisfied that the ends of justice will be met by the measure of clemency I have determined upon.
George Jones, alias "Marsh Market Jake."	Indiana.....	Dec. 4, 1894	Robbing a post-office...	Jan. 4, 1895; 2 years and 6 months in Indiana State Prison, North, and fine of $1,000.	Oct. 5, 1896	Granted. This convict has been imprisoned nearly 2 years and has a record by no means free from criminal taint. The detectives who procured his arrest and conviction now represent that investigation since his conviction and facts that have come to their knowledge have satisfied

Patrick Clifford.....	Missouri, western..	Mar. 27, 1896	Breaking into post-office.	March 27, 1896; 5 years in United States Penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.do	Granted. This pardon is granted upon the request of the district attorney who prosecuted the convict and who now asserts his confident belief that he is entirely innocent of the crime of which he was convicted. This belief is represented as being based upon a thorough examination of facts developed since the trial, and the conclusion of the district attorney seems to be so well supported that I am unwilling to be responsible for the further imprisonment of one whose innocence is, to say the least, extremely probable.
Frank Carothers.....	Kansas	Apr. —, 1895	Desertion; violation forty-seventh Article of War.	April —, 1895; to be dishonorably discharged, forfeiting all pay and allowances, and to be confined at hard labor for 1 year, which term was reduced to 6 months. Feb. 6, 1894; 18 months in Iowa State penitentiary and fine of $250 and costs.	Oct. 2, 1896	Granted. The facts and circumstances presented by this application abundantly satisfy me that a restoration of the rights of citizenship to the applicant is well deserved, and this pardon is granted for that purpose.
William A. Bell.....	Iowa, southern.....	Feb. 3, 1894	Using the mails to defraud.		Oct. 5, 1896	Granted. This convict was released more than a year ago, and has since that time lived such a life as to commend him to the respect and good opinion of his neighbors. His pecuniary condition is such as to render it impossible for him to pay the fine adjudged against him and still remaining unpaid. This pardon is therefore granted for the purpose of restoring to the convict his rights of citizenship and remitting the fine which he was sentenced to pay.
Oscar E. Hill.....	Utah	Nov. 8, 1893	Making false entries in books of national bank of which he was cashier, and making false statements.	Nov. 8, 1893; 10 years in Utah penitentiary.	Sept. 9, 1896	Granted. I have heretofore granted this convict such clemency as his case on its merits would justify. This pardon, which deducts about 6 months from his term as fixed by former commutation, is granted solely out of pity for the convict's aged mother, who has recently become a widow, and who in her mental and physical weakness and distress prays for the presence and assistance of her only son during her few remaining days.
Samuel K. Obray.....do	Sept. 14, 1895	Adultery	Sept. 14, 1895; 2 years in Utah penitentiary.	Sept. 14, 1896	Granted. This convict has been imprisoned for 1 year, and his pardon is recommended by the judge who passed sentence upon him. In view of all the facts presented to me, I am satisfied that the ends of justice will be fully answered by the punishment already inflicted upon this convict.

J. W. Phillips.....	Alabama, northern...	Apr. 18, 1896	Illiott distilling.....	Apr. 23, 1896; 15 months in Kings County penitentiary and fine of $100 and costs.	Sept. 23, 1896	Granted. It is represented to me that this convict has consumption in an advanced stage, and the physician of the prison where he is confined certifies that he probably can not live until the expiration of his sentence, and that longer imprisonment will shorten his life. Solely upon the ground of the convict's condition of health I am constrained to grant him a pardon in the belief that it permits him to spend the short period of life allotted to him at home instead of in prison.
John Barkley.....	Florida, northern...	May 14, 1896do.....	May 14, 1896; 3 months in jail and fine of $200.	Sept. 1, 1896	Sentence commuted to a fine of $200. This commutation is granted upon the recommendation of the judge who sentenced the convict and the district attorney who prosecuted him, and because I am satisfied that the fine imposed, which has already been paid, is, in view of all the facts, an adequate punishment for his offense.
E. W. Eggleston.....	Kentucky	Apr. 7, 1896	Serving as pilot without license.	Apr. 7, 1896; fine of $100 and costs.	Sept. 5, 1896	Granted. This applicant for pardon pleaded guilty of a merely technical violation of the law relating to pilots, and his offense involved no moral turpitude, being almost justified by the necessities of his situation. He is a poor man, and though the fine imposed upon him was small, its payment by those who ought to pay it would bring distress to those absolutely innocent, who are already otherwise much afflicted. I am satisfied that no public interest will suffer by remitting the punishment adjudged in this case.
Frank Pruner	North Carolina, western.	Apr. 10, 1894	Counterfeiting.....	Apr. 10, 1894; 5 years in Albany County penitentiary and fine of $500.	Sept. 1, 1896	Granted. This convict has been imprisoned more than 2 years, and his release is recommended by the judge and district attorney who officiated on his trial. Two others connected with him in the crime of which he was convicted have already been pardoned, and I am not certain that there should be any discrimination against him.
James C. Henderson...	Florida, northern...	Apr. 13, 1896	Selling liquor at retail without license.	Apr. 13, 1896; 6 months in Walton County jail and to pay costs.	Sept. 5, 1896	Granted. This prisoner has now been confined under his sentence nearly 5 months, leaving unexpired only about 1 month of his term. He has a wife and large family of children dependent upon him, who greatly need his help. I have determined to grant this pardon for their sake and because I think the ends of justice have been fully answered by the imprisonment the convict has already suffered.

List of pardons granted by the President during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897—Continued.

Floyd A. Smith.....	Iowa, northern.....	Sept. —, 1893	Violation of postal laws. (Sec. 5467, Rev. Stat.)	Sept. —, 1893; 2 years in Ames prison.	Sept. 15, 1896	Granted. This convict has suffered the penalty of his crime and was discharged from prison upon the expiration of his sentence, more than a year ago. Since his release he has endeavored to regain the esteem and confidence of his neighbors by an honest, law-abiding life, and I deem him worthy of the encouragement afforded by a restoration of his rights of citizenship.
Mathew Simanoff and Nicolai Sackaloff.	Alaska	Nov. term, 1895.	Unlawfully carrying on the business of a retail liquor dealer.	Nov. term, 1895; 13 months in the San Quentin prison, California.	Sept. 21, 1896	Sentence commuted so that the term of imprisonment will expire on the 25th day of October, 1896. These convicts are Russians living in Alaska and are strangers without friends in California, where they are imprisoned. They have behaved well in prison, and this commutation, which deducts only 5 days from their term, is granted for the purpose of permitting [them] to sail for their home in a steamer which leaves San Francisco on the 26th of October, thus avoiding their stay at that city after their discharge until the departure of another vessel.
J. G. Dozier.....	Mississippi, northern.	Apr. 4, 1895	Embezzling a certain letter. (Sec. 5467, Rev. Stat.)	Apr. 6, 1895; 3 years at hard labor in Kings County penitentiary.do	Granted. Under a commutation heretofore granted this convict's term of imprisonment would expire in about 3 months. The clemency already granted was prominently based upon pity for the convict's aged mother and with a view of permitting her to see her son again. It now appears that her extreme age and her physical ailments and mental distress are quite likely to defeat my sympathetic purpose unless her son's release is immediately permitted. To avoid this, and because I think the object of the punishment of crime has, considering all the circumstances, been accomplished in this case, I have concluded to grant an unconditional pardon.

J. W. Phillips.....	Alabama, northern...	Apr. 18, 1896	Tillett distilling.....	Apr. 23, 1896; 15 months in Kings County penitentiary and fine of $100 and costs.	Sept. 23, 1896	Granted. It is represented to me that this convict has consumption in an advanced stage, and the physician of the prison where he is confined certifies that he probably can not live until the expiration of his sentence, and that longer imprisonment will shorten his life. Solely upon the ground of the convict's condition of health I am constrained to grant him a pardon in the belief that it permits him to spend the short period of life allotted to him at home instead of in prison.
John Barkley.....	Florida, northern...	May 14, 1896do	May 14, 1896; 3 months in jail and fine of $200.	Sept. 1, 1896	Sentence commuted to a fine of $200. This commutation is granted upon the recommendation of the judge who sentenced the convict and the district attorney who prosecuted him, and because I am satisfied that the fine imposed, which has already been paid, is, in view of all the facts, an adequate punishment for his offense.
E. W. Eggleston.....	Kentucky	Apr. 7, 1896	Serving as pilot without license.	Apr. 7, 1896; fine of $100 and costs.	Sept. 5, 1896	Granted. This applicant for pardon pleaded guilty of a merely technical violation of the law relating to pilots, and his offense involved no moral turpitude, being almost justified by the necessities of his situation. He is a poor man, and though the fine imposed upon him was small, its payment by those who ought to pay it would bring distress to those absolutely innocent, who are already otherwise much afflicted. I am satisfied that no public interest will suffer by remitting the punishment adjudged in this case.
Frank Pruner	North Carolina, western.	Apr. 10, 1894	Counterfeiting.....	Apr. 10, 1894; 5 years in Albany County penitentiary and fine of $500.	Sept. 1, 1896	Granted. This convict has been imprisoned more than 2 years, and his release is recommended by the judge and district attorney who officiated on his trial. Two others connected with him in the crime of which he was convicted have already been pardoned, and I am not certain that there should be any discrimination against him.
James C. Henderson...	Florida, northern...	Apr. 13, 1896	Selling liquor at retail without license.	Apr. 13, 1896; 6 months in Walton County jail and to pay costs.	Sept. 5, 1896	Granted. This prisoner has now been confined under his sentence nearly 5 months, leaving unexpired only about 1 month of his term. He has a wife and large family of children dependent upon him, who greatly need his help. I have determined to grant this pardon for their sake and because I think the ends of justice have been fully answered by the imprisonment the convict has already suffered.

List of pardons granted by the President during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897—Continued.

Henry M. Jackson.....	New York, southern	Jan. 20, 1890	Embezzlement of public funds.	Jan. 23, 1890; 6 years in Erie County penitentiary and fine of $10,000.	Sept. 5, 1896	Granted for the purpose of restoring rights of citizenship and the remission of the fine imposed. This convict, after serving his term of imprisonment and earning a deduction from said term for good conduct, was discharged more than 2 years ago. Since his discharge he has persistently and manfully endeavored to regain his lost standing in the esteem of his friends and neighbors. He has obtained employment and has demonstrated in every possible way his intention to live an honest, reputable life. I am willing to extend to him the encouragement this pardon affords.
Daniel T. Thompson.....	Colorado.....	Mar.—, 1895	Desertion, violation of 47th article of war.	Mar. 19, 1895; to be dishonorably discharged and to be confined at hard labor for 1 year.do	Granted for the purpose of restoration to citizenship. This applicant for pardon was convicted of desertion by court-martial and sentenced to imprisonment for 1 year, a part of which term was afterwards remitted by the proper authorities. In view of the peculiar circumstances of the case, I am willing to restore his rights of citizenship if my action in the premises, under the law making their loss a consequence of desertion, is necessary and effective for that purpose.
Robert E. Boutwell.....	Texas, eastern.....	May 5, 1894	Murder.....	June 29, 1896; to be hanged Sept. 4, 1896.	Aug. 20, 1896	Sentence commuted to imprisonment for life. I grant this commutation with much hesitation, because it saves from the extreme penalty of the law the last of three persons who were engaged in a foul murder and who with such commutation will all have escaped the extreme penalty of the law, which I believe they deserve. I have, however, yielded to the feeling that, inasmuch as this convict's partners in the crime of which he was convicted have been saved from the death penalty, that he ought not to suffer it alone. This seems also to be the opinion of the judge and district attorney who officiated on the trial.

Sam. Barnard.....	Kentucky.....	June 10, 1896	Violation internal-revenue laws. (Sec. 3257, Rev. Stat.).	June 12, 1896; 6 months in Franklin County jail, Frankfort, Ky.	Aug. 25, 1896	Granted. The offense of which this prisoner was convicted, seems to have been a technical one. He has a large and dependent family, and the district attorney who prosecuted him and the judge who sentenced him unite in recommending Executive clemency in his behalf.
Dibishooah nuh quod (Indian.)	Minnesota.....	Apr. 11, 1896	Assault with intent to kill.	April 11, 1896; 6 months at hard labor in White Earth Reservation jail and fine of $1.do.....	Granted. This convict is an Indian, and the son of a Chippewa chief who has been always friendly and disposed to lead his tribe in the way of civilization. He earnestly appeals for the pardon of his son, and the district attorney who prosecuted this prisoner recommends such pardon. He has only a little over a month of his imprisonment yet to serve, and I am satisfied his present release will answer the ends of justice as well as demonstrate to the members of his tribe that the Federal authorities are not unkind of them.
Billy Wilson, alias D. L. Anderson.	New Mexico.....	—, 1891	Passing counterfeit money.do.....do.....	Granted upon condition that the pardon of convict shall take effect immediately after his personal appearance and sentence in the proper court, or if sentence has been pronounced, upon his surrender to the proper authorities under such sentence. This convict was convicted about 15 years ago and escaped from jail pending an appeal from his conviction. Since his escape he has established a new home and has by his reputable conduct gained the respect and good will of his neighbors, who numerously certify to his good character and standing. He was very young when convicted, and developments upon his trial and representations now made to me cause very great doubts in my mind as to his guilt. I am entirely satisfied that the ends of justice will be answered and a desirable citizen saved to society by the act of clemency I have determined on. The pardon in this case will be sent to the governor of New Mexico, in order that the condition upon which it is granted may be complied with.
William Alford.....	Arkansas, eastern ..	May 20, 1896	Illicit distilling.....	May 21, 1896; 6 months in United States penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and fine of $50 and costs.	Sept. 1, 1896	Granted. This convict has been imprisoned more than 3 months, and this pardon is granted upon the recommendation of the judge who sentenced the prisoner and the district attorney who prosecuted him, and their statement of the facts of the case satisfying me that the punishment already suffered answers the ends of justice.

H. H. Mallory.....	Arkansas, western.	Sept. , 1892	Robbery.....	Sept. 28, 1892; 5 years in De- troit house of correction.	July 27, 1896	Granted. This convict has been imprisoned nearly 4 years. The prison physician certifies that the prisoner is in such a condition of health as to indicate his early death. I have determined, therefore, to discharge him from prison, so that he may spend his few remaining days among friends and die at home.
William Penn Clarke...	District of Columbia	Oct. 7, 1895	Forgery.....	Oct. 7, 1895; 2 years in Al- bany County peniten- tiary, to date from Oct. 22, 1895.	July 28, 1896	Sentence commuted to 1 year's actual im- prisonment, to date from the time of the convict's arrival at the penitentiary. This commutation is granted upon the recom- mendation of the district attorney who prosecuted the convict and because of his good character before his conviction, his apparently sincere repentance, and out of sympathy for his mother and his wife and child.
Matthew Callahan.....	New York, southern	May 17, 1877	Concealing stolen mail matter.	May 18, 1877; 3 years in Al- bany County penitentiary and fine of $500.do.....	Granted for the purpose of restoring rights of citizenship. This convict served a sen- tence of imprisonment and was released nearly 19 years ago. His conduct since that time is represented as having been decent, orderly, and honest, and I am satisfied that his restoration to citizenship is fully jus- tified.
John Lyons.....	Arizona.....	Apr. 4, 1895	Burglary of United States post-office.	Apr. 6, 1895; 3 years and 6 months in the State prison at San Quentin, Cal., and fine of $500.	Aug. 3, 1896	Granted. The additional information I have received since my previous examination of this case has satisfied me that if this convict is not entirely innocent, he was convicted upon testimony so unreliable that justice and a due regard for the legal rights of every citizen accused of crime require his release.
John Day Bryant.....	Arkansas, western..	May 17, 1894	Larceny.....	May 17, 1894; 3 years in Kings County peniten- tiary.	Aug. 4, 1896	Granted. This convict has but a little more than 1 month of confinement to suffer be- fore his sentence is executed. His health is seriously affected, and his symptoms of pulmonary disease are so pronounced that I am assured by the physician of the prison where he is confined that longer imprison- ment will probably endanger his life.

Thornton Alexander ..	District of Columbia ..	May 27, 1896	Murder	July 6, 1896; to be hanged Nov. 27, 1896 at United States jail, District of Columbia.	Aug. 15, 1896	sented. I have concluded to grant him an unconditional pardon. Sentence commuted to imprisonment for life. In my opinion the facts in this case do not establish such a deliberate and premeditated homicide as should be punished by death. I therefore agree with the judge who sentenced this convict, the district attorney who prosecuted him, and the jury which convicted him, who recommend a commutation of the sentence of death. Sentence commuted to 6 months' actual imprisonment. This commutation is granted for the reason that the sentence was made quite severe upon the mistaken belief on the part of the court that the convict was an old offender, and because, in my opinion, the sentence as reduced will answer the ends of justice. Granted. This pardon is granted solely upon the report of the physician of the prison where the convict is confined, representing that he is in the last stages of consumption, and will not, probably, live more than 2 months.
Edward Campbell	Minnesota	Apr. 8, 1896	Giving liquors to Indiana.	Apr. 8, 1896; 13 months in Minnesota State prison and fine of $10.do	Granted. This convict has already been imprisoned 9 months and has less than 3 months to serve for two offenses, which are related to each other. I have determined to grant this pardon on the representations made to me by physicians concerning the precarious condition of the convict. I am not entirely free from doubt as to the justice of this course, notwithstanding these medical certificates, but have concluded to err, if there be error, in favor of life.
Jamison Jackson	Arkansas, western ..	June 7, 1894	Larceny and arson	June 30, 1894; 1 year for larceny and 2 years for arson—in all, 3 years—in Kings County penitentiary.do	Granted. This convict has already been imprisoned 9 months and has less than 3 months to serve for two offenses, which are related to each other. I have determined to grant this pardon on the representations made to me by physicians concerning the precarious condition of the convict. I am not entirely free from doubt as to the justice of this course, notwithstanding these medical certificates, but have concluded to err, if there be error, in favor of life.
John Gallagher	Minnesota	Apr. 11, 1896	Assaulting officer, Sec. 5396, Rev. Stat., U. S.	Apr. 11, 1896; 6 months in Crow Wing County jail; changed to Hennepin County jail, Minnesota.	July 27, 1896	Sentence commuted to 2 years' actual imprisonment. The judge who sentenced this convict and the district attorney who prosecuted him recommend his pardon, and it is strongly urged by numerous prominent citizens. The character of the prisoner's offense is such that I do not feel justified in granting an absolute pardon, but the representations made to me concerning his former high standing and good character and his conduct since his arrest persuade me that the ends of justice would be met by the commutation I have determined upon.
W. H. Gibbs	Mississippi, southern.	Nov. 7, 1894	Embezzling post-office funds.	Nov. 11, 1894; 3 years in Kings County penitentiary and fine of $3,920.82 and costs.do

Granted for the purpose of restoring rights of citizenship. This convict served a sentence of imprisonment and was released nearly 17 years ago. His conduct since that time is represented as having been decent, orderly and honest, and I am satisfied that his restoration to citizenship is fully justified.

John Ausbro	New York, southern	Oct. 25, 1894	Illegal dumping in New York Harbor.	Dec. 20, 1894; 6 months in Ludlow Street jail. Case appealed to Supreme Court United States. Begun sentence Apr. 18, 1896.	July 4, 1896	This pardon is granted solely on account of the bad health of the prisoner. Granted. This prisoner has now been imprisoned more than 24 months under his sentence. He was convicted under a statute comparatively new, he being the first person sentenced by virtue of its provisions. His offense did not involve any moral turpitude, and the punishment he has already suffered and the sustinment of the statute by the courts in his case have, in my opinion, subserved the ends of justice. The pardon of this convict is recommended by the judge who sentenced him and the district attorney who prosecuted him.
William R., alias Golliath, Robinson.	District of Columbia	Jan. 26, 1892	Assault with intent to kill.	Jan. 30, 1892; 8 years in Albany County penitentiary.do	This convict has been imprisoned about 44 years. I am impressed with the belief that, in view of all the circumstances surrounding the commission of his offense, the ends of justice have been answered by the imprisonment he has already suffered. In addition to this the warden and physician of the prison where he is confined represent that the convict's health is very bad, and that his sickness is such as to make the duration of his life probably short at best and very uncertain.
Walter W. Robinson....	New York, southern	May 23, 1895	Embezzling letters. (Sec. 5467, Rev. Stat. U. S.)	May 23, 1895; 2 years and 6 months in Kings County penitentiary.	July 11, 1896	Granted. This convict has been imprisoned more than a year, and I am reliably informed that his physical condition is quite feeble and that it is constantly growing worse. He has lost the sight of one eye, and the other is so badly affected that I am assured his continued imprisonment will result in total blindness. Therefore, solely upon the ground of the prisoner's ill health, this pardon is granted.
John C. Ball.....	Texas, eastern.....	May 5, 1894	Murder.....	May —, 1896; to be hanged Sept. 4, 1896.	July 17, 1896	Sentence committed to imprisonment for life. This convict has been twice tried for murder and convicted of that offense on both trials. The judge who tried the case on both occasions, and who is thoroughly familiar with the facts, urges a commutation of the death sentence on the ground of the youth of this convict and for other cogent reasons. This recommendation is also made by the present district attorney upon his knowledge of the case. Upon the representations made by these officials, I feel bound to grant this commutation.

Tom Davis and Taylor Hickman.	Texas, eastern.....	May 27, 1896	Murder.....	June 27, 1896; to be hanged Sept. 4, 1896.	July 17, 1896	Sentence commuted to imprisonment for life. These convicts are full-blooded Indian boys, one being 14 and the other but 13 years of age. They are utterly ignorant and quite unintelligent, and though the murder they committed appears to be a brutal and cold-blooded homicide, they seem to have but a slight, if any, appreciation of the enormity of their offense. The judge and district attorney who officiated upon the trial strongly urge a commutation of the sentence of death, and I have no doubt that, even in view of all the facts, such a commutation should be granted.

EXHIBIT R.—Report of the special attorney in charge of matters relating to the Mission Indians.

RIVERSIDE, CAL., October 30, 1897.

DEAR SIR: Replying to request in Department letter dated 18th instant, for the usual report on matters in my hands relating to "Mission Indians," I have the honor to submit the following:

In my report under date of November 6, 1896, I stated that two actions brought by the owner of the Warner ranch, in San Diego County, were pending in the superior court of that county and were to be submitted without further argument. These two cases were decided on the 28th December, 1896, in favor of the grant owners. I made a motion for a new trial, which was denied, and I am perfecting an appeal to the supreme court of California in each case. The cases will probably get before the court in the spring term in 1898.

In the matter of the disputed water rights on the Agua Caliente Reservation between the Indians and the Indian Office on the one hand and the Palm Valley Water Company on the other, I stated in my last report that I had submitted the entire proposition, with recommendations to the Indian Office, where no further action had been taken. This matter stands in the same condition to-day.

In the matter of the claims of Indians to lands in the college grant in Santa Barbara County, I have to say that a friendly suit has been brought against all the Indians claiming any interest there by the grant owners, who have stipulated with me that the Indians shall take judgment for the lands which they now occupy, an outcome to the dispute which is satisfactory to the Indians and the grant owners. This matter will undoubtedly be closed up during the present year.

Among the matters referred to from the Indian Office during the past year was a question of the failure of the Escondito Irrigation District to comply with the terms of the contract by which it was given a right of way across the reservations for the La Jolla and La Riche Indians. The Irrigation District, under the terms of the contract, is under obligations to supply to the Indians a stipulated quantity of water. Upon investigation I ascertained that the difficulty resulted wholly from the entire lack of water at that particular time in the San Luis Rey River, and through no fault of the Irrigation District.

In two separate cases in the past year I have been called upon by the Indian agent to defend his United States Indian policemen in criminal actions brought before the justices of the peace. These prosecutions were instigated by renegade white men, who had, or thought they had, grievances against the policemen for performing their duty without regard to persons.

I have also been called upon by the Indian agent to assist in the prosecution, under the State laws, of a number of persons for selling liquor to the Indians. I have also had in my hands a number of applications of Indians before the United States Land Office for homesteads or allotments under the United States land laws.

Very respectfully,

FRANK D. LEWIS,

United States Special Attorney for Mission Indians.
